Goldfine To Face Quiz On SEC Reports

Financial Statement Not Made In 8 Years House Probers Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Goldfine faces questioning as to why a company from which he is alleged to have borrowed more than $100,000 made no financial reports for nearly eight years to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.) said Sunday he will ask the questions Tuesday. Bennett said, "I think even Mr. Goldfine's attorneys agree that questions about failure to file the SEC reports are pertinent."

Goldfine, millionaire gift-giving friend of presidential assistant Sherman Adams, singled out Bennett especially Saturday when he lashed out at the congressional investigation of his relations with Adams and federal agencies as "smear, pry and spy" operation.

Fishing Expedition
Bennett, a member of the special House investigating subcommittee, said it was ridiculous for Goldfine to refer to the inquiry as a fishing expedition.

Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.), who has said the testimony shows a pattern of preferential treatment of Goldfine by federal regulatory agencies, said SEC withdrew a petition for appointment of a receiver for the company involved in the borrowings. He said this occurred after Adams had an inquiry made about the SEC case.

Goldfine has testified he told Adams one of his firms was having trouble with SEC and Adams has said he had an inquiry made, but did not seek any favors for Goldfine.

But Harris told Goldfine Friday the testimony shows that SEC "has subjected itself in certain of its important functions to the will of the executive department."

Returns On Tuesday
Goldfine is scheduled to return to the witness stand Tuesday. Last week he repeatedly refused to answer questions about the alleged borrowings, contending they were internal business affairs and not pertinent to the committee inquiry.

Harris ruled they were pertinent and told Goldfine he was subjecting himself to possible citation for contempt of Congress.

Harris said SEC knew or should have known Goldfine, majority stockholder, was causing company funds "to be appropriated to yourself and your designees by means of notes and checks for which no vouchers are available."

But, Harris said, the regulatory agency took no effective action. He said the subcommittee is studying legislation to correct such situations.

Urges Marines Go To Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) Sunday urged that U. S. Navy and Marines be sent into Cuba to release the 29 American servicemen kidnapped by the rebels if they are not freed immediately.

Capehart said the sending of troops into Cuba might be construed as a warlike action.

But, he said, "If you don't put a stop to this sort of thing, next time it'll be 300 or 3,000 Americans that will be held prisoners and that can lead to war. After a sufficient period of negotiations, the President should take action."

Capehart, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and identified with the GOP's conservative wing, was interviewed on the ABC television program, "College News Conference."

Sunny Skies Prevail Over Much of Nation

By The Associated Press
Sunny skies and warm temperatures prevailed over most of the nation Sunday.

The upper Midwest registered temperatures in the 80s, but portions of New England remained in the 70s. The Weather Bureau said most other sections east of the Continental Divide would remain warm for at least another day with some thundershower activity in the South and over the Rockies.

The Plains states were targets of thunderstorms and there were remnants of Saturday's storms reported from Kansas to Texas and New Mexico eastward to the Mississippi Valley. Sunny, hot weather reappeared in most of the West with temperatures climbing into the 80s in Oregon and Idaho. Mercury readings near or above the 100 degree mark were registered in Nevada, Colorado and the Southwest.

Fog and low clouds continued to shade much of the West Coast Sunday, with sprinkling rain in Oregon. Cooler air from Canada bathed the northern Plains, the upper Great Lakes, Montana, Wyoming and the Dakotas.

Adams Becomes Heavy Load For GOP To Carry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.) said Sunday the longer Sherman Adams remains as President Eisenhower's assistant "the heavier the load he will be for the Republicans to carry on their backs."

Kerr, a member of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, said in a radio broadcast—Mutual "Reporters' Roundup"—he thinks Adams' acceptance of gifts from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine is "very bad for the Republicans to carry on their backs."

Adams has denied using any influence with government agencies in behalf of Goldfine. He conceded he may have been imprudent in accepting favors from his Boston friend.

Kerr said he was "not accusing Sherman Adams of being dishonest."

"But I would say that he made a slight understatement when he said he was 'imprudent,'" Kerr said.

"The longer Adams stays, the heavier load he will be for the Republicans to carry on their backs. He will hurt their chances this year and he will hurt them in 1960."

The interview was recorded before the Detroit News said Saturday that Adams is planning to resign over the Labor Day weekend. The newspaper gave top-ranking Republicans as the source of its report but did not name them. There has been no comment from the White House.

$2,777 Whale Monument Unveiled

HAKODATE, Japan (AP)—Daisuke Amano, 83-year-old owner of a whaling company, got to thinking about the hundreds of whales he had helped take from Japanese coastal waters in 35 years.

He decided to do something about it. So, over the weekend Amano unveiled a 12-foot long concrete whale riding proudly atop a 36-foot high stone shaft in his back yard.

Amano said the memorial cost $2,777 and five whaling companies helped him pay for it.

Bastille Day Parade May Be Best France Has Seen

PARIS (AP)—It won't be Gen. de Gaulle's fault if Monday's Bastille Day parade isn't the biggest and best France has ever seen.

The Premier obviously wants it that way. Every effort has been made to make usually cynical Frenchmen conscious of their patriotic heritage. They will be invited to forget the divisions which threatened the nation with civil war only six weeks ago.

Marching troops, blaring bands and standards emblazoned with the past great victories of France will be paraded before massed hundreds of thousands of citizens in the capital. The biggest naval review in 20 years will take place at sea just off Toulon. Screaming jets will swoop in salute from the skies.

At night there will be sputtering fireworks and all-night dancing to accordion bands throughout the city of the nation.

All of the pomp and ceremony, the parades and fireworks, were reinstituted by De Gaulle—after

Archbishop Michael Dies In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Archbishop Michael, 66, head of the Greek Orthodox archdiocese in North and South America, died of heart failure at Doctors Hospital Sunday after an intestinal operation.

He became ill while attending an ecclesiastical congress in Salt Lake City and was flown here last Tuesday night for treatment.

He was the spiritual leader of a million Americans of Greek descent and of an estimated five million communicants of all Eastern Orthodox churches in the Western Hemisphere. His archdiocese has 330 churches.

A hospital spokesman said part of Archbishop Michael's colon was removed during an extensive operation last Wednesday. He suffered shock but responded quickly to medication and seemed to be recovering, the spokesman added.

Sunday, his attending physician asked the tall, gray-bearded prelate how he felt. He nodded, then died.

Bishop Athenagoras of Boston, Chancellor Arthinandrite Neophytos of the archdiocese and John Coliopoulos, Greek consul general in New York, were summoned to the hospital immediately after the archbishop's death.

Bishop Athenagoras conducted a preparatory requiem service known as "Trisagion" at the archbishop's bedside.

Bishop Athenagoras had come here from Boston last Tuesday upon learning of the archbishop's illness.

Motorboat Crew Leaves Denmark For New York

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Three men in a 22-foot outboard motorboat left Copenhagen Sunday for New York. They said they expect to make the trip across the Atlantic in about 10 days. Their boat is powered by two outboard motors.

Leader of the venture is Ole Botved, manager of a boatbuilding firm in Vordingborg, Denmark. Chief engineer is James Wynne of Miami. The navigator is Svend Oerjangaard of Sweden.

During the crossing the small boat will keep in contact with a Swedish freighter which is to supply it with fuel.

Last Time Noted On Cold Planet

CHICAGO (AP) — Volcano-like eruptions may be creating a relatively hot time on the cold planet, Jupiter.

In any event, astronomers have detected unusual atmospheric disturbances on the largest planet in the solar system, now some 446 million miles from Earth.

They believe the outbreaks, the first observed in more than 10 years, are caused by the release of large amounts of heat energy on the planet's surface.

The sightings were made by Gerard P. Kuiper, professor of astronomy and director of the University of Chicago's Yerkes Observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., and his associate, Alan P. Lenham.

They used a 40-inch refractor telescope, largest of its type in the world.

When astronomers look at Jupiter they see only the dense cloudy atmosphere, hundreds of miles deep, that surrounds it. This atmosphere is streaked with belts of different colors, which change from time to time.

The planet's strange spot has grown brighter. The spot, 25,000 long and 7,000 miles across, first was observed by astronomers some 300 years ago. It fades, sometimes disappears and then brightens periodically.

Kuiper attributed the brightening to a clearing away of haze in the upper levels of the planet's atmosphere, a phenomenon previously linked with atmospheric turbulence.

The suspected warmup of Jupiter wouldn't mean much to a space traveler's comfort. The atmosphere still is 160-170 degrees below zero.

Cuba Rebels To Release Servicemen

Adm. Ellis States Expected Evacuation Begins At 2 P.M.

By LARRY ALLEN
GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP) — Rear Adm. Robert B. Ellis said Sunday night he expected the evacuation of U. S. servicemen hostages held by Cuban rebels to begin at 2 p.m. Monday.

Ellis, commander of the U. S. Guantanamo Naval Base, said he had received the word on the expected release from U. S. Consul Park Wollam, who has been in the hills negotiating with the rebels.

The rebels seeking to overthrow the regime of President Fulgencio Batista still hold 29 American servicemen captive.

Ellis said he was told by Wollam: "Evacuation of our men will commence at 2 p.m. tomorrow and we are hopeful all will be released."

Free Within 4 Days
If the evacuation goes off without a hitch, all the Americans may be freed within four days, observers here believed.

Civilian hostages and one serviceman already released by the rebels have been moved out of the mountains of eastern Cuba by helicopter in small groups.

Ellis' announcement came after deep concern for the safety and welfare of the kidnapped servicemen was aroused here by the failure of the rebels to release any substantial number of their military personnel prisoners.

All plane and helicopter flights from this U. S. Navy base were grounded for a brief period Sunday.

Naval authorities canceled for about two hours all flights from the base after a U. S. Marine Flying Boxcar was buzzed by Cuban army fighter planes and forced to land at Santiago de Cuba in Oriente Province. There was no immediate explanation why the Marine plane, en route from here to Miami, Fla., was forced to land, except the Cubans said they had been unable "to determine the aircraft's intention. But it was over rebel territory at the time and the Cuban government has warned against flights over rebel areas."

Plane Is Released
The plane was released a few hours after being forced to land. Guantanamo naval headquarters said a Cuban pilot evidently misunderstood instructions about foreign planes flying over Castro rebel country. The plane was on its prescribed course, the Navy said.

The U. S. consulate at Santiago began immediate action for release of the plane and it continued its scheduled flight to Opa-locka, Fla. The Cuban official explanation was that there was a misunderstanding.

While the rebels have reported the 29 hostages in their hands were safe and well, they have produced no proof.

None of the U. S. negotiators shuttling back and forth to the rebel lairs by helicopter have seen any of the missing American sailors and Marines.

Navy Fears Construction Of Soviet Missile Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. Navy submarine experts fear that Russia may create a fleet of missile-firing submarines before the United States can solve the anti-submarine problem.

The Russians are believed burying the building of such a fleet. And the anti-submarine problem isn't solved yet.

The recently formed task group Alfa—a Navy unit organized to press research and training in anti-submarine warfare (ASW)—has just begun circulation of paper outlining the problem. Commander of Alfa is Rear Adm. John S. Thatch, with a group of ships including a carrier destroyer and submarines, as well as planes, helicopters and other ships.

The paper says the mission is of "monumental diplomatic importance."

Then it adds: "A demonstrated ability to place missile-armed submarines off the coast of an Allied country undetected and unannounced would allow Moscow an almost undeniable ultimatum. To prevent this we must demon-

Millions Of Bees Swarm Into Wall Of House

CHICAGO (AP)—Albert Franklin, 51, has a honey of a problem. He doesn't know what to do about the bees—millions of them, he says—which threaten to take over his home.

A couple of weeks ago Franklin heard a buzzing sound in the walls. Franklin didn't know what was causing that increasingly aggravating buzzing until Sunday.

"I was outside in the yard and here came a great swarm of bees," he said. "The swarm approached a wall of the house, then clustered around a two-inch hole, high up. It took about 35 minutes for them all to go in."

Franklin rushed in to tell his wife. As the two stood in the yard, another swarm, as large as the first, crawled into the wall.

"I've got to do something about it but I don't know what," Franklin said. "My wife, Willie Mae, says it's like living in a beehive, especially in the daytime. They don't bother us at night."

Panama Head Confers With Dr. Eisenhower

PANAMA (AP) — President Ernesto de la Guardia Jr. and Dr. Milton Eisenhower discussed Panama's economic needs in a 90-minute conference Sunday. High-level advisers of both attended the talks.

Eisenhower arrived here Saturday for his first stop on a survey tour of six Central American countries and Puerto Rico.

An informed source said De la Guardia told President Eisenhower's brother Panama lacks enough capital for an increase in production to cover its growth in population and it can hardly stand rising taxation to meet a steadily rising budget.

De la Guardia is said to have told his visitor that the population, now about 800,000, is increasing at an estimated 2.9 per cent a year and the income gain is only 2.5 per cent. The budget has risen 10 per cent a year since 1951 and now stands at 57 million dollars.

A half-hour courtesy call at the presidential palace preceded the business session and a luncheon at the El Panama Hilton Hotel. Dr. Eisenhower presented De la Guardia with a glass cigarette box and ash tray, gifts from President Eisenhower.

Then Dr. Eisenhower went to the canal zone to call on Gov. W. E. Potter and Lt. Gen. Ridgely Gaither, chief of the U. S. Caribbean Command. Potter gave him the background on housing and wage-scale problems which Eisenhower was to discuss with leaders of non-U. S. employees in the zone.

He and his daughter Ruth and others in his party were guests of De la Guardia at dinner Sunday night. He planned to tour the canal Monday and go deep-sea fishing Tuesday.

Inventor Killed By Curing Apparatus

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Charles Werly, 52-year-old Swiss inventor, called in a group of specialists Saturday to demonstrate his new electric-wave apparatus for curing rheumatism.

Werly fitted the machine on himself, switched on the current—and died. The watching doctors said he was killed by a 220-volt charge passing through his body.

Toll Of Dead Mounting As Strife Rages

Factional Fighting Disrupts Islanders; Two Soldiers Killed

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Murderous warfare between Greek and Turkish Cypriots raged Sunday across this strife-torn island.

Tolls of dead and wounded mounted sharply as new shooting and knife attacks erupted.

Two British soldiers were killed Sunday night and two were wounded in what officials described as a shooting accident. The soldiers were members of a British army group scaling a rock face at Lefkoniko, 20 miles east of Nicosia, on a hunt for Greek Cypriot underground EOKA fighters.

First reports said one soldier's automatic weapon went off, killing two of his companions and wounding two others.

Toll Rises To 50
The death toll among islanders in the factional fighting rose to 50 dead and more than 100 wounded since the latest outburst of fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots began June 8.

Of the dead officially listed, 30 are Greek Cypriots and 20 are Turkish Cypriots.

The latest island killings included three Turkish Cypriot shepherds found shot dead in fields near Famagusta, and a 50-year-old Greek Cypriot stabbed to death by a street mob that also wounded his wife in the Nicosia suburb of Omorphita.

Two other Turkish Cypriots and another Greek Cypriot were reported killed in the day's fighting in other areas but there were no details immediately.

Two dozen persons died in last week's fighting, six of them Saturday.

The violence continued despite pleas by Gov. Sir Hugh Foot and communal leaders to halt it.

They made an unprecedented joint appeal for peace Saturday and curfews were extended at spots throughout the island.

Appeal Is Signed
The appeal was signed by Mayor Themistocles Dervis of Nicosia, the ranking Greek Cypriot leader on the island, and Dr. Fazil Kut-chuk, chief Turkish Cypriot representative. Urging that "bloodshed cease here and now" the appeal said there would be no end to the suffering if the killing kept on.

With the lifting of the curfew Sunday morning, shooting broke out anew. Two Greek Cypriots were shot by gunmen riding motorcycles. A Turkish Cypriot constable was wounded. A Maronite Christian was shot down while returning from work.

Fires burned out four Greek Cypriot stores here and in Paphos. The chapel of St. Marks, in Limassol, was nearly destroyed by fire. It contained 16th century wood carvings regarded as the finest in the island.

The curfew was reimposed in the capital late Sunday and Foot called on the two communities to send deputations to talk about new security measures.

Vicuna Export Ban Is Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported Sunday that Bolivia has lifted its temporary ban on exports of vicuna hair.

This is the stuff that went into the making of the famous coat that Bernard Goldfine gave to his friend, presidential assistant Sherman Adams. Adams scoffed at reports that the coat cost $700. He said the material cost Goldfine's mill about $69.

By coincidence, the Bolivians removed their ban on exports of vicuna, alpaca and llama hair on June 17 the same day that Adams testified before a House subcommittee investigating Goldfine's activities.

The Agriculture Department said the exports were halted April 21 "to give Bolivian authorities time to study the effect of rapid U. S. price increases of vicuna on duty collections."

It seems that exporters were undervaluing their shipments to this country.

The department said Bolivia has now placed these values on vicuna hair for duty assessment purposes; washed and sorted $22 a pound; unwashed and sorted $11 a pound; low grade $5.

Goldfine To Face Quiz On SEC Reports

Financial Statement Not Made In 8 Years House Probers Say

English Primate Stirs Furore With Comment

LONDON (AP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury touched off a furore Sunday by suggesting it may be God's intention that the human race destroy itself in an H-bomb war.

The Anglican primate of England, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, comments in a new book:

"For all I know it is within the providence of God that the human race should destroy itself in this manner. There is no evidence that the human race should last forever, and plenty in Scripture to the contrary."

The archbishop was one of 22 contributors to a book out Monday—"The Fearful Choice"—edited by Philip Toynbee, 42, son of famed historian Prof. Arnold Toynbee.

The younger Toynbee, former leftist novelist, advanced the view that occupation by the Russians would be preferable to a hydrogen war.

The archbishop, in a critical reply, contended, "Policy should not be based simply on fear of pain."

Dr. Fisher's views were described as "wicked" by Canon L. J. Collins, the preceptor of famed St. Paul's Cathedral. Canon Collins, leader of a group of Anglican churchmen who feel Britain should renounce nuclear weapons—alone if necessary—said:

"It is one thing to accept suffering on one's own behalf. It is quite another—and a wicked one at that—to think lightly of suffering caused to other people."

The Archbishop of Canterbury, who is head of the Anglican Church, wrote: "I am not being unfeeling. Christ in his Crucifixion showed us how to suffer creatively. He did not claim to end suffering, nor did he bid his disciples to avoid suffering."

"I cannot establish any policy merely on whether or not it will save the human race from a period of suffering or from extinction."

Reynolds News, a Socialist Sunday newspaper, predicted the archbishop would face his biggest storm yet over his statement.

The Sunday Pictorial commented, "Surely this can't be the will of God."

Mt. Fuji Swamped With 10,000 Climbers

TOKYO (AP)—Mt. Fuji, Japan's favorite mountain, was inundated by climbers Sunday. Ten thousand persons, a record number for a single day, climbed to the summit of the famous dead volcano.

Cuba Rebels To Release Servicemen

Adm. Ellis States Expected Evacuation Begins At 2 P.M.

By LARRY ALLEN

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP) — Rear Adm. Robert B. Ellis said Sunday night he expected the evacuation of U. S. servicemen held by Cuban rebels to begin at 2 p.m. Monday.

Ellis, commander of the U. S. Guantanamo Naval Base, said he had received the word on the expected release from U. S. Consul Park Wollam, who has been in the hills negotiating with the rebels.

The rebels seeking to overthrow the regime of President Fulgencio Batista still hold 29 American servicemen captive.

Ellis said he was told by Wollam: "Evacuation of our men will commence at 2 p.m. tomorrow and we are hopeful all will be released."

Free Within 4 Days If the evacuation goes off without a hitch, all the Americans may be freed within four days, observers here believed.

Civilian hostages and one serviceman already released by the rebels have been moved out of the mountains of eastern Cuba by helicopter in small groups.

Ellis' announcement came after deep concern for the safety and welfare of the kidnapped servicemen was aroused here by the failure of the rebels to release any substantial number of their military personnel prisoners.

All plane and helicopter flights from this U. S. Navy base were grounded for a brief period Sunday.

Naval authorities canceled for about two hours all flights from the base after a U. S. Marine Flying Boxcar was buzzed by Cuban army fighter planes and forced to land at Santiago de Cuba in Oriente Province. There was no immediate explanation why the Marine plane, en route from here to Miami, Fla., was forced to land, except the Cubans said they had been unable "to determine the aircraft's intention. But it was over rebel territory at the time and the Cuban government has warned against flights over rebel areas."

Plane Is Released The plane was released a few hours after being forced to land. Guantanamo naval headquarters said a Cuban pilot evidently misunderstood instructions about foreign planes flying over Castro rebel country. The plane was on its prescribed course, the Navy said.

The U. S. consulate at Santiago began immediate action for release of the plane and it continued its scheduled flight to Opa-locka, Fla. The Cuban official explanation was that there was a misunderstanding.

While the rebels have reported the 29 hostages in their hands were safe and well, they have produced no proof.

None of the U. S. negotiators shutting back and forth to the rebel lairs by helicopter have seen any of the missing American sailors and Marines.

BERGAMO, Italy (AP)—Three Italian mountain climbers were killed in a fall Sunday while scaling the steep wall of Presolana Peak near their north Italian town.

Inventor Killed By Curing Apparatus

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—Charles Werly, 52-year-old Swiss inventor, called in a group of specialists Saturday to demonstrate his new electric-wave apparatus for curing rheumatism.

Werly fitted the machine on himself, switched on the current—and died. The watching doctors said he was killed by a 220-volt charge passing through his body.

Navy Fears Construction Of Soviet Missile Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. Navy submarine experts fear that Russia may create a fleet of missile-firing subservibles before the United States can solve the anti-submarine problem.

The Russians are believed burying the building of such a fleet. And the anti-submarine problem isn't solved yet.

The recently formed task group Alfa—a Navy unit organized to press research and training in anti-submarine warfare (ASW)—has just begun circulation of paper outlining the problem. Commander of Alfa is Rear Adm. John S. Thatch, with a group of ships including a carrier destroyer and submarines, as well as planes, helicopters and other ships.

The paper says the mission is of "monumental diplomatic importance." Then it adds: "A demonstrated ability to place missile-armed submarines off the coast of an Allied country undetected and unannounced would allow Moscow an almost undeniable ultimatum. To prevent this we must demon-

Millions Of Bees Swarm Into Wall Of House

CHICAGO (AP)—Albert Franklin, 51, has a honey of a problem. He doesn't know what to do about the bees—millions of them, he says—which threaten to take over his home.

A couple of weeks ago Franklin heard a buzzing sound in the walls. Franklin didn't know what was causing that increasingly aggravating buzzing until Sunday.

"I was outside in the yard and here came a great swarm of bees," he said. "The swarm approached a wall of the house, then clustered around a two-inch hole, high up. It took about 35 minutes for them all to go in."

Franklin rushed in to tell his wife. As the two stood in the yard, another swarm, as large as the first, crawled into the wall.

"I've got to do something about it but I don't know what," Franklin said. "My wife, Willie Mae, says it's like living in a beehive, especially in the daytime. They don't bother us at night."

Panama Head Confers With Dr. Eisenhower

PANAMA (AP) — President Ernesto de la Guardia Jr. and Dr. Milton Eisenhower discussed Panama's economic needs in a 90-minute conference Sunday. High-level advisers of both attended the talks.

Eisenhower arrived here Saturday for his first stop on a survey tour of six Central American countries and Puerto Rico.

An informed source said De la Guardia told President Eisenhower's brother Panama lacks enough capital for an increase in production to cover its growth in population and it can hardly stand more taxation to meet a steadily rising budget.

De la Guardia is said to have told his visitor that the population, now about 800,000, is increasing at an estimated 2.9 per cent a year and the income gain is only 2.5 per cent. The budget has risen 10 per cent a year since 1951 and now stands at 57 million dollars.

A half-hour courtesy call at the presidential palace preceded the business session and a luncheon at the El Panama Hilton Hotel.

Dr. Eisenhower presented De la Guardia with a glass cigarette box and ash tray, gifts from President Eisenhower.

Then Dr. Eisenhower went to the canal zone to call on Gov. W. E. Potter and Lt. Gen. Ridgely Gaither, chief of the U. S. Caribbean Command. Potter gave him the background on housing and wage-scale problems which Eisenhower was to discuss with leaders of non-U. S. employees in the zone.

He and his daughter Ruth and others in his party were guests of De la Guardia at dinner Sunday night. He planned to tour the canal Monday and go deep-sea fishing Tuesday.

Appeal Is Signed

The appeal was signed by Mayor Themistocles Dervis of Nicosia, the ranking Greek Cypriot leader on the island, and Dr. Fazil Kut-chuk, chief Turkish Cypriot representative. Urging that "bloodshed cease here and now" the appeal said there would be no end to the suffering if the killing kept on.

With the lifting of the curfew Sunday morning, shooting broke out anew. Two Greek Cypriots were shot by gunmen riding motorcycles. A Turkish Cypriot constable was wounded. A Maronite Christian was shot down while returning from work.

Fires burned out four Greek Cypriot stores here and in Paphos. The chapel of St. Marks, in Limassol, was nearly destroyed by fire. It contained 16th century wood carvings regarded as the finest in the island.

The curfew was reimposed in the capital late Sunday and Foot called on the two communities to send deputations to talk about new security measures.

Vicuna Export Ban Is Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported Sunday that Bolivia has lifted its temporary ban on exports of vicuna hair.

This is the stuff that went into the making of the famous coat that Bernard Goldfine gave to his friend, presidential assistant Sherman Adams. Adams scoffed at reports that the coat cost $700. He said the material cost Goldfine's mill about $69.

By coincidence, the Bolivians removed their ban on exports of vicuna, alpaca and llama hair on June 17 the same day that Adams testified before a House subcommittee investigating Goldfine's activities.

The Agriculture Department said the exports were halted April 21 "to give Bolivian authorities time to study the effect of rapid U. S. price increases of vicuna on duty collections."

It seems that exporters were undervaluing their shipments to this country.

The department said Bolivia has now placed these values on vicuna hair for duty assessment purposes; washed and sorted $22 a pound; unwashed and sorted $11 a pound; low grade $5.

Toll Of Dead Mounting As Strife Rages

Factional Fighting Disrupts Islanders; Two Soldiers Killed

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Murders warfare between Greek and Turkish Cypriots raged Sunday across this strife-torn island.

Tolls of dead and wounded mounted sharply as new shooting and knife attacks erupted.

Two British soldiers were killed Sunday night and two were wounded in what officials described as a shooting accident. The soldiers were members of a British army group scaling a rock face at Lefkoniko, 20 miles east of Nicosia, on a hunt for Greek Cypriot underground EOKA fighters.

First reports said one soldier's automatic weapon went off, killing two of his companions and wounding two others.

Toll Rises To 50

The death toll among islanders in the factional fighting rose to 50 dead and more than 100 wounded since the latest outbreak of fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots began June 8.

Of the dead officially listed, 30 are Greek Cypriots and 20 are Turkish Cypriots.

The latest island killings included three Turkish Cypriot shepherds found shot dead in fields near Famagusta, and a 50-year-old Greek Cypriot stabbed to death by a street mob that also wounded his wife in the Nicosia suburb of Omorphita.

Two other Turkish Cypriots and another Greek Cypriot were reported killed in the day's fighting in other areas but there were no details immediately.

Two dozen persons died in last week's fighting, six of them Saturday.

The violence continued despite pleas by Gov. Sir Hugh Foot and communal leaders to halt it.

They made an unprecedented joint appeal for peace Saturday and curfews were extended at spots throughout the island.

Appeal Is Signed The appeal was signed by Mayor Themistocles Dervis of Nicosia, the ranking Greek Cypriot leader on the island, and Dr. Fazil Kut-chuk, chief Turkish Cypriot representative. Urging that "bloodshed cease here and now" the appeal said there would be no end to the suffering if the killing kept on.

Dead Make Living Easier For Russians

BALTIMORE (AP)—The dead quoted Russian doctors that such blood causes only about half as many side reactions as transfusions for which live donors are used.

Two tons of blood—about 4,000 pints—taken from the newly dead were used for transfusions in one Moscow hospital last year, Dr. Edgar F. Berman said in an interview.

He said he saw five operations in which transfusions from that source were used. And Dr. Berman

But blood is not the only product of the dead which Russian medicine is putting to good use in the living.

Dr. Berman said the bodies of accidental death victims "are completely denuded for skin and bones."

Their skin goes into skin banks, their bones into bone banks and other salvagable organs and parts of the body are stored, he said. The Baltimore surgeon said he was particularly impressed with the practicability of the blood bank system, considering the trouble and inconvenience American hospitals undergo in order to keep an ample supply of blood on hand.

The Soviet system works like this, according to Berman:

Victims of accidental death are taken to a special sterile morgue in the hospital. Blood clots after death, but in two hours' time it liquefies again. At that time, it is taken from the body. No chemical or other agent is added except an antibiotic.

Dr. Berman said the blood is then subjected to rigorous tests for five days to insure that it contains no unhealthy agents. Next it is typed. And he said it can be stored in good condition, available whenever it is needed, for as long as 40 days.

Dr. Berman said he found Russian surgeons quite expert but behind this country in adopting some of the newer and more complicated operations.

However, he said, they have made outstanding progress in certain fields—particularly in experiments on transplanting human organs.

He said the Russians claim to be about eight years ahead of American surgery in this field. Dr. Berman said American surgeons estimate it will be 10 years before they can break down the barrier which currently blocks wholesale transplanting of healthy organs for diseased ones. The barrier is the reaction which one body sets up against tissue taken from another body. Except in the case of identical twins, the recipient body rejects foreign tissue by means of an immune reaction, similar to the method antibodies reject the invasion of bacteria or viruses.

Russians he talked to estimated they will have this problem licked in two years, Berman said.

And when they lick it, Dr. Berman said the Russians should be ready to transplant many organs or other parts of the body from one person to another.

"Organ transplant is the big thing in medicine over there," Dr. Berman added. "The Russians consider it the medicine of the future. They are practicing only routine medicine in the meantime."

Toll Of Death

(Continued from Page 1) hedged at first but indicated they may meet Foot Monday. But it was not certain whether Greek Cypriot mayors will take part.

Mayor Dervis said the Greek mayors declined the invitation because a BBC broadcast had reported that the conference would mark a new policy of negotiation without the participation of Archbishop Makarios. He demanded a "correction."

Acknowledged Leader

Archbishop Makarios of the Greek Orthodox Church is acknowledged leader of the Greek Cypriots. He was exiled by the British more than two years ago. He has been freed from detention in the Seychelles Islands but has not been allowed to return to Cyprus. The Greek Cypriots long ago adopted a policy of refusing to settle the island's future without his participation in the negotiations.

Sir Hugh denied there was any intention of discussing political issues at the proposed conference, or of excluding Makarios from talks on future policy. He said the only purpose of the conference was to discuss "the urgent immediate need to stop bloodshed" and expressed hope the mayors would meet with him Monday.

Two Typhoons Prowl Pacific

TOKYO (AP)—Two typhoons—Viola and Winnie—were prowling the western Pacific Sunday night. Viola, which sideswiped two Jima Saturday, passed about 600 miles southeast of Tokyo and moved on northeast at 20 miles an hour. She packs 95-mile winds at the center.

Winnie, charged with 125-mile winds at the center, is about 300 miles southeast of Okinawa and moving toward that island at 8 miles an hour.

Hungary Boss Looses Newest Blast At Tito

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Communist Hungary's ideological boss loosed a new blast Sunday against Titoism and executed Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy.

"Our experiences prove," minister of state Gyula Kallai said, "that 'national communism'—Titoism—is the road to the restoration of capitalism and especially by the history of its ideological-political leaders, the Imre Nagy group, which has since been deservedly punished."

Kallai, writing in the party daily Nepszabadsag, echoed charges recently made by Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev. He called Titoism a Trojan horse and said it served to disrupt the international Communist movement.

"Like the Yugoslav Communists," he went on, "Imre Nagy found a common denominator for such aggressive political-minded groupings as NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization), SEATO (Southeast Asia Treaty Organization) and the Baghdad Pact on one hand, and on the other the Warsaw Treaty, the defensive organization of the Socialist—Communist—countries."

"His idea of remaining outside these blocs led in practice to the restoration of bourgeois rule and incitement to a new war."

There was no confirmation here of reports from the U.S. State Department of a sudden increase in the number of trials of those connected with the revolt. Communist authorities refuse to talk about political trials at all.

Boy, 2, Struck, Killed By Car

CENTREVILLE, Md. (AP)—A 2-year-old Centreville boy ran into a county road Sunday afternoon and was struck and killed by a car.

State police said Jeffery A. Cahill was pronounced dead of a fractured skull at the scene by Deputy Medical Examiner W. H. Fisher. Police said he dashed from bushes alongside the road and was hit by a car driven by Thomas W. Esham, 36, of Salisbury. The body was knocked 40 feet.

Packard Line May Be Dropped By Auto Firm

NEW YORK (AP)—The Studebaker-Packard Corp. has decided to drop the Packard line, once the symbol of prestige among car owners. The New York Times said Sunday.

However, President Harold Churchill of the motor firm would neither confirm nor deny the story.

The Times' story said the decision was made because the firm believes its destiny is tied to smaller cars.

The company will concentrate on shorter, smaller-wheelbase cars with no fins, little chrome, less horsepower and lower top speeds. The Times said. It will discontinue its line of larger cars this year. The new autos will be in dealer showrooms by mid-November, the story added.

Mayor Signs Loan Package

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore voters will get a chance in November to approve or reject proposed city loans totaling $71,600,000.

Mayor D'Alesandro signed the loans Saturday and called upon voters to okay them as "stepping stones to a better Baltimore."

The mayor also signed a proposed loan of $9,000,000 for expansion of Walters Art Gallery but he said he was not making any recommendation to the voters on that one.

Biggest chunk in the administration loan package is $35,000,000 for urban renewal including $25,000,000 to be spent on the Charles Center project, a dramatic overhaul of the downtown business district.

Other proposed loans include $6,000,000 for a civic center (a previous loan of $6,000,000 is already approved), $7,500,000 for sewerage and storm drainage facilities, $7,500,000 for water supply facilities, $5,000,000 for school construction, $5,000,000 for fire houses, $3,500,000 for hospitals, $1,100,000 for parks and recreation and $1,000,000 for construction of police buildings.

City May Fight Rate Increase

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Gas and Electric Co. has convinced the Public Service Commission it deserves a rate increase, but it may also have to convince the courts.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro said Saturday he has asked Baltimore Solicitor Thomas N. Biddison to study the PSC decision granting the rate hike to determine if the city should contest the increase in court.

The $9,234,000 a year rate increase approved by the commission means customers in the company's 2,300 square mile operating area will pay more for gas, steam heat and electricity.

The electricity bill of the average subscriber will go up about 39 cents a month, and the average gas bill will increase about 33 cents.

Company officials said the rate increases were needed to meet demands of population expansion and industrial growth. The PSC generally agreed in a 27-page ruling, but it pared the company's request by $700,000.

The gas and electric company has another request in for an additional rate hike to pay the cost of last winter's storm damage and create an emergency storm fund.

City May Fight Rate Increase

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Gas and Electric Co. has convinced the Public Service Commission it deserves a rate increase, but it may also have to convince the courts.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro said Saturday he has asked Baltimore Solicitor Thomas N. Biddison to study the PSC decision granting the rate hike to determine if the city should contest the increase in court.

The $9,234,000 a year rate increase approved by the commission means customers in the company's 2,300 square mile operating area will pay more for gas, steam heat and electricity.

The electricity bill of the average subscriber will go up about 33 cents a month, and the average gas bill will increase about 33 cents.

Company officials said the rate increases were needed to meet demands of population expansion and industrial growth. The PSC generally agreed in a 27-page ruling, but it pared the company's request by $700,000.

The gas and electric company has another request in for an additional rate hike to pay the cost of last winter's storm damage and create an emergency storm fund.

Street Lights In Midland To Be Replaced

Work Will Start There This Week

MIDLAND—Work will begin this week on the installation of new and modern street lights in Midland.

Mayor Lionel D. Baker said the improvements should be completed in about three or four weeks. Representatives of the Potomac Edison Company report that the new lighting will increase the light along Midland's Main Street about 100 per cent.

Street lights that are being replaced have been in use over 50 years, according to Mayor Baker. New poles will be installed by the Potomac Edison Company and the lights will be re-labeled.

Sometime in late August, after the lighting improvement is completed, a three-day celebration will be conducted.

Mayor Baker complimented Commissioners Harry J. Devlin and Harry Youngblood for their fine job accomplished in cooperation with Ervin O. Lewis, Lonaconing supervisor of the Potomac Edison Company, to get the improved lights.

Rev. Schwindt To Visit Home

LONACONING—Rev. Leslee E. Schwindt, vicar at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, will be on vacation from his parish beginning August 4 and plans to drive to Leoti, Kansas, to visit his mother and family, returning to Lonaconing in time for the services on September 7.

Choir rehearsals will not be held during August although the choir will sing at the worship services each Sunday. At the rehearsal held Wednesday evening, the choir decided to hold its picnic on Sunday, July 27, for members and their families at Swaugers in Garrett County. A covered dish dinner and picnic luncheon will be held.

Advisory Board and Woman's Auxiliary will have a vacation during August also, with no meetings scheduled during the month.

Rev. Harry E. Shelley Jr., rector of the Church of the Guardian Angel, Baltimore, will take the services at St. Peter's while Father Schwindt is away on vacation. Father Shelley will be vacationing in Western Maryland and will stay at the rectory part of the time.

Vestments for the Junior Acolyte Guild and the layleaders have been ordered.

West Virginia Firemen To Convene In Romney

ROMNEY — The thirtieth annual convention of the West Virginia State Firemen's Association will be held here this week in conjunction with the annual homecoming celebration, beginning today. The convlave will have delegates from more than 130 fire companies throughout West Virginia with State President Harold Welker, presiding.

State Fire Marshal Carl E. Weimer will attend. Meetings will be held at the Legion Home. This is the first time Romney has been chosen as the convention site in 29 years.

Today, Romney will choose a candidate to represent the local fire company in the state-wide contest to name Miss West Virginia Fireman I. Many local girls have entered the contest for the "Miss Romney Fireman" title. Any girl between the ages of 16 and 19 and unmarried is eligible to enter. She does not have to be sponsored by any company, and judging will be at the carnival grounds at the fire company lot on School Street at 9 p. m.

"Miss Romney Fireman" will be presented a silver and rhinestone crown, a gold engraved loving cup and a bouquet of flowers.

The "Miss West Virginia Fireman I" judging will take place Thursday evening.

Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., the Romney Volunteer Fire Company, in conjunction with the state fire marshal's office, will put on a demonstration at the carnival grounds under the direction of E. Wade Thomas, deputy fire marshal.

Thursday morning, the convention will convene at 10 at the Legion Home with C. J. Powell, of Romney, first president of the association, welcoming delegates to Romney and later making the keynote address. Welker will give the response.

Contestants for the "Miss West Virginia Fireman I" title, homecoming committee members and officers of the association will be entertained at a lawn party Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the Welker home.

At 9 p. m. at the carnival grounds the beauty contest will be held. Girls from all over the state will be vying for the "West Virginia Fireman I" title. Judging will take place on the fire company lot.

INDIAN JAMBOREE

PROCESSIONAL. The Stony Indians, in native costumes, arrive at Banff for their four-day celebration.

NOBLE REDMAN. With spear in hand, a chief of the tribe, Sitting Eagle, presents a handsome figure at the Banff festivities.

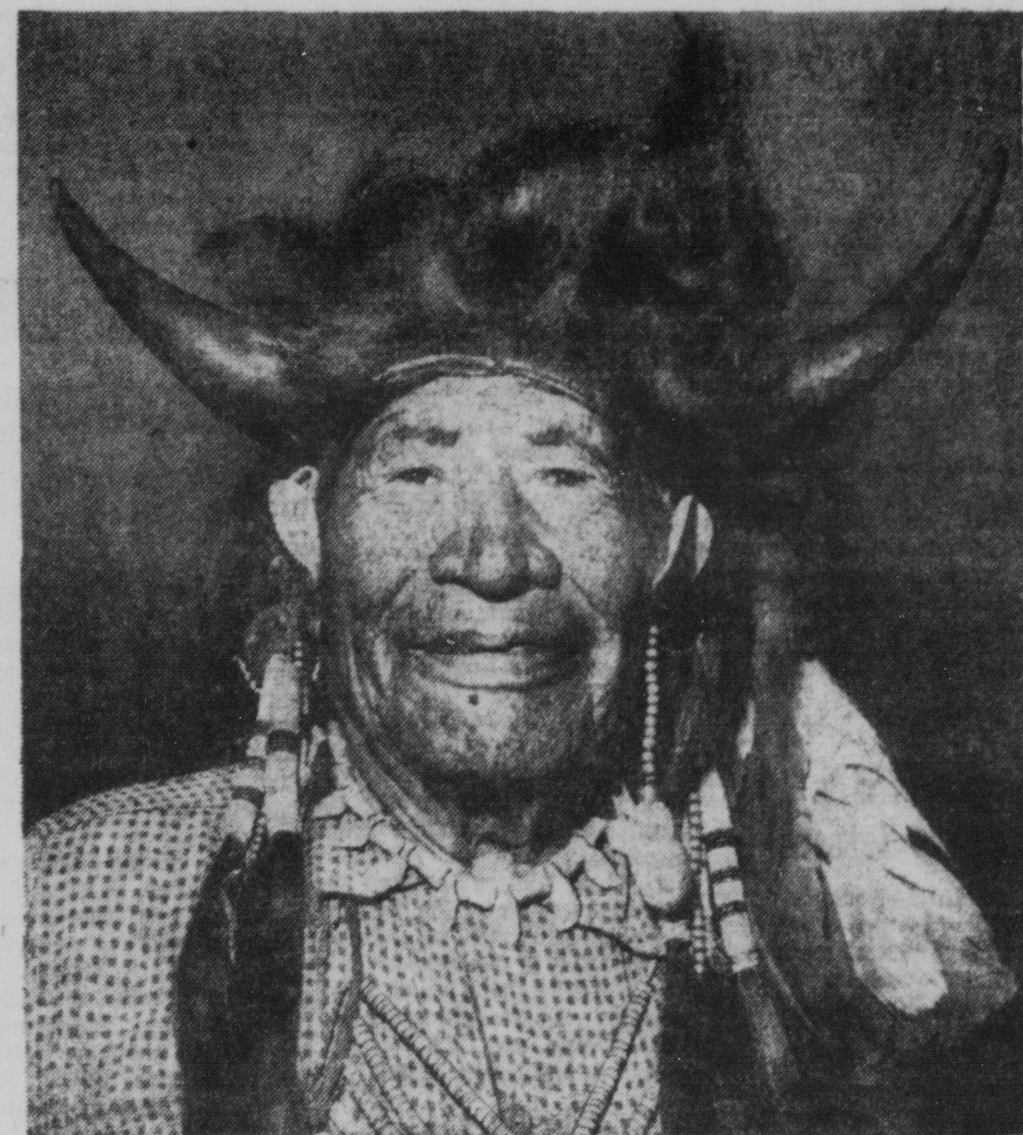

Outside their tents, four Indian chiefs entertain their white guest, Claude Brewster, at their council meeting on the Indian grounds at Banff.

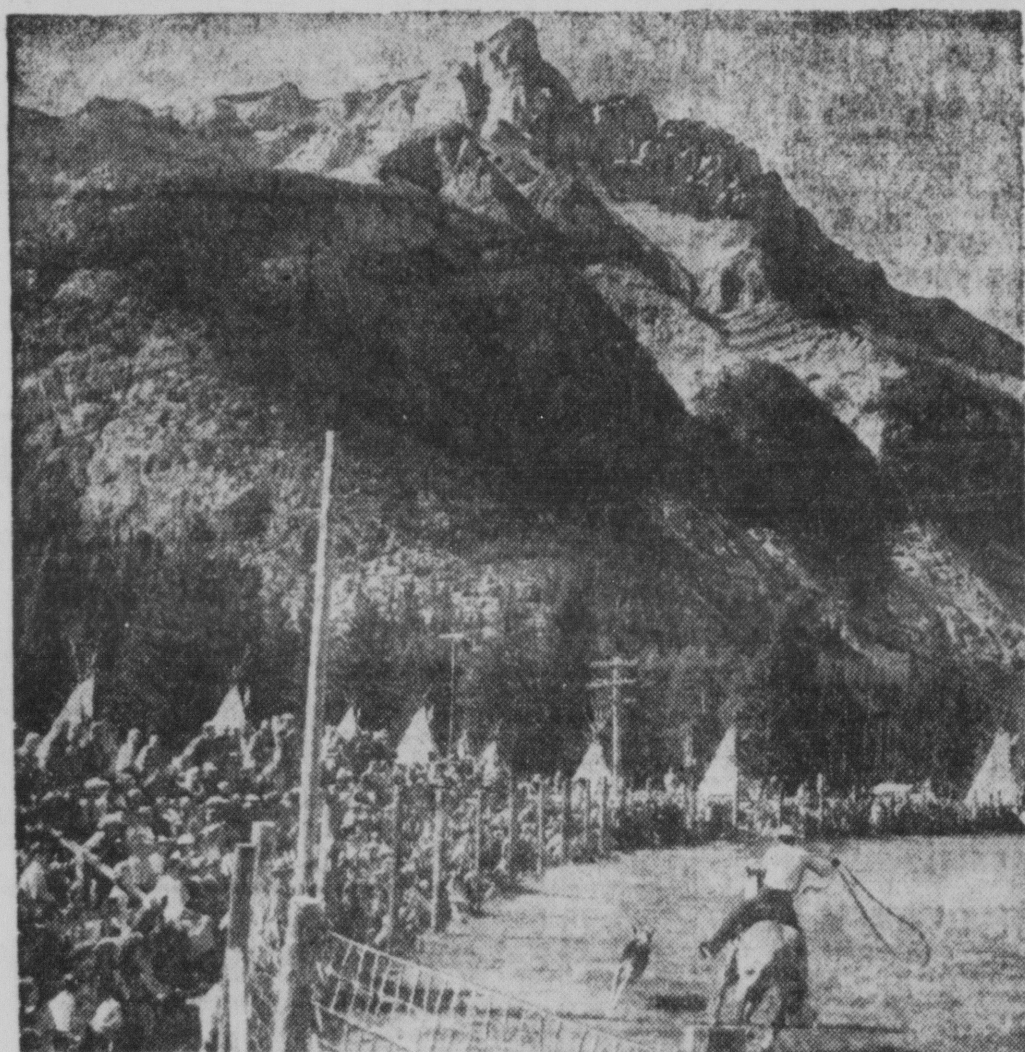

Long before summer rolls around, the Stony Indians of Canada get ready to put on their big spectacle of the year, the "Indian Days" celebration at Banff. Held each summer since 1894, it's one of Canada's big outdoor shows.

Every Stony Indian—chief, brave, squaw and even papoose—participates. It's a grand cavalcade as the redmen, decked out in beads, buckskins, feathered headdress and fine shawls, set out from their reservation and head over winding trails for Banff. Some travel on ponies and others on foot.

Once they pitch their tents on a plain close to Banff, the celebration begins, with horse-racing, bronco-busting, roping contests, bow-and-arrow competitions and other sports in which the Indians excel, with tribal dances and the singing of traditional songs. While this is going on the squaws decorate their tepee village, and the white visitors get their first glimpse of real Indian village life. The festivities go on for four full days.

Walking Buffalo, aged warrior and former chief, is happy participant.

Mountains form a scenic backdrop for the "Indian Days" rodeo. An Indian, riding bareback, thrills the spectators with his horsemanship.

In ceremonial dress, a Stony Indian performs the hoop dance, a feature of the Banff festivities.

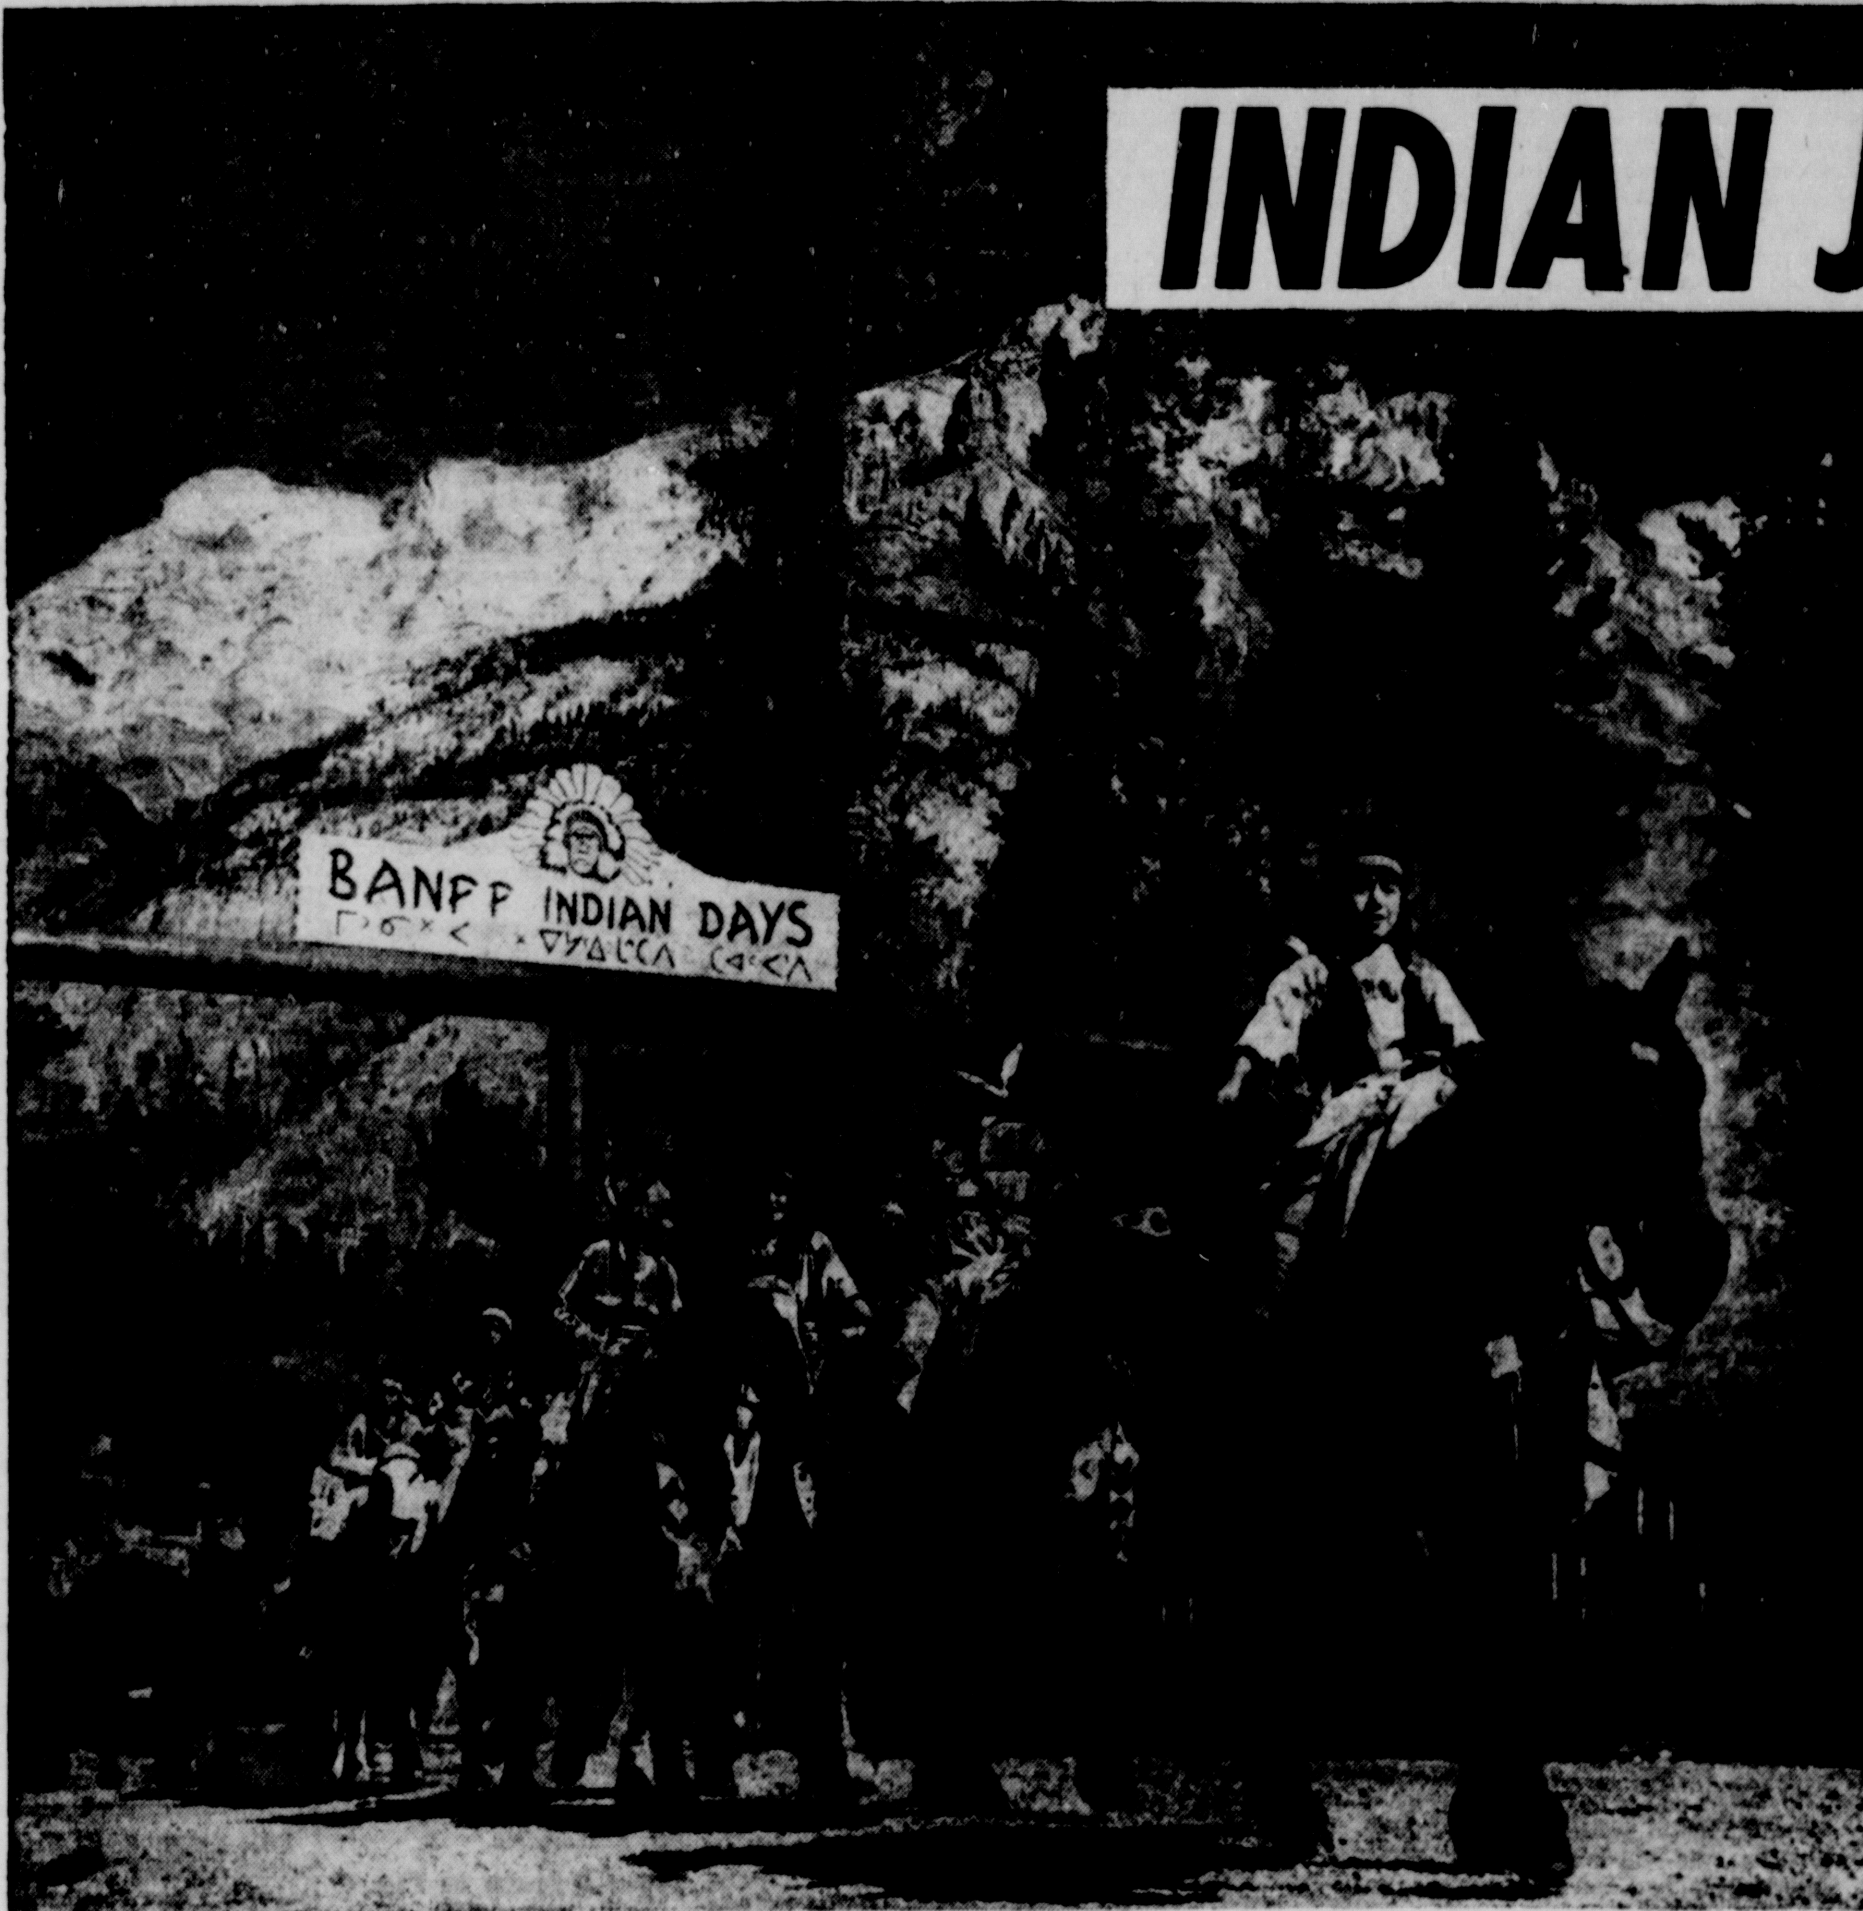

Papoose clings to mother, a bit startled by all the goings-on.

Batista May Face Even Stormier Times

Reports from Cuba, dramatized by the rebel abduction of American and Canadian citizens, indicate that President Batista is headed for still stormier times.

Rebel forces led by Fidel Castro seem to have recovered from their disastrous defeat when they attempted to take over the government several months ago. They are well entrenched in rugged terrain from which the Batista army has been unable to dislodge them. Castro, feeding on rising hatred of the dictatorial Batista regime, seems to have increased his strength geographically and in number of followers.

Batista might have been able to contain the rebellion except for the extreme violence he applied to captives, many of them only suspected of being rebels. Similar atrocities, then committed by the ruling Spaniards, once caused the United States to send military forces to free Cuba.

Castro has turned to violence and atrocity in retaliation. Castro's charge that the U. S. fuels Cuban government planes to attack rebels is denied by Washington. But if he continues kidnaping U. S. citizens, sooner or later Cuban savagery may be employed and a situation created that will force Washington to act.

Indications that Dictator Batista's days may be numbered compel a closer look at Castro. Is he any better? Are rumors of his communist sympathies correct? These are matters which the State Department undoubtedly has considered and will be prepared to act upon when and if the Cuban government changes.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The 1958 Campaign Moves

No political party, not even one that is motivated by pollsters, as the Republicans are, can afford to acknowledge that it faces a sharp defeat in a forthcoming election. Its motto is always, "Excelsior!" and it goes forward with the hopefulness of everlasting youth until it disappears as the Whig Party disappeared.

Nevertheless, for practical purposes, it is clear that the Republican Party has pursued a suicidal political policy during the Eisenhower Administration and that the Democrats will take full advantage of the situation in both the 1958 and 1960 campaigns. The Republicans have, however, some hopes:

1. That the recession will be dissipated before Election Day and that the people will be cognizant of better times. This can, in no manner, be affected by advertising, television, or propaganda in any form. It is a matter of individual well-being and a sense of security.

2. That the Democrats will overdo their anti-Republican investigations to the point where they will boomerang. The Republicans are not altogether displeased with Oren Harris's operations of the House Committee investigating Sherman Adams. It has been a badly done job which is beginning to evoke sympathy for Adams.

3. That individual candidates might draw strength in particular states. It is such a hope which motivates the candidacy of Nelson Rockefeller for Governor in New York State. The assumption is that the Rockefeller has done so much for New York City and that they have such a good name, that it will carry Nelson Rockefeller into the Governorship.

Such hopes as these are not within the realm of political practicality. The Republican Party between 1932 and 1952 managed to keep itself intact as the conservative element in the country, opposed to the New Deal and the Fair Deal and antagonistic to what it called, creeping socialism, a term invented by Herbert Hoover. The character of the party might best be described by the fact that during most of this period, Senator Robert A. Taft was its leader. However due entirely to big business influence, Taft could never be nominated for President because the pollsters and the advertising consultants on Madison Avenue had decided that Taft could not be elected.

Their own selections, Alf Landon, Wendell Wilkie, Thomas E. Dewey, also could not be elected which proves that their political judgment as to what it would have taken to defeat Roosevelt or Truman was amateurish, until they found Dwight D. Eisenhower, a product of the course of events. Politically, Eisenhower made the mistake from the outset of failing to recognize that he had to be a partisan to operate successfully within the American system. He set out to destroy the conservative Republicans and although there is some appearance of success, the fact is that the rank and file of the Republican Party remain conservative and that many of them have not voted in a Presidential election since 1940.

New York State is an excellent example of what has happened. The state party organization has no standing and provides no leadership. Such a mass vote as New York County is irrevocably gone to the Democrats and to the Liberal Party. The Republican Party does not attract young and new voters in this area, except for some young lawyers who see a quicker chance to emerge in a minority party. But that leads to quarrels among ambitious youngsters seeking the benefits of bi-partisan references which bring money to individuals but nothing to a political party.

Thus Nelson Rockefeller, who has apparently been assured that he can defeat Governor Averell Harriman, moves into a strictly political fight without enough of a party to support him. Whereas the Liberal Party has been friendly to Rockefeller when he was an appointee in the Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower Administrations, that party, for whatever its strength is worth, will support the Democratic Party, as it always has.

Although some Democrats say that James A. Farley cannot be nominated for United States Senator because of Liberal Party opposition, no leader of the Liberal Party has made such a statement and it can be prognosticated that should Farley be nominated, the Liberal Party will endorse him and that Farley will be elected.

In other states in the Northeast, similar conditions prevail and the Democrats are very confident for 1958.

Permanently Dry?

Sherman Adams Will Not Be Sacrificed

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Trial by jury is an institution of which Americans are justly proud. But trial by headlines and fragmentary statements—twisted out of context by politicians—is something of which nobody can be proud. For it means that a man must be considered guilty until he can prove himself innocent. This is the reverse of what Americans have always been taught.

Nearly a month has gone by since President Eisenhower in a press conference referred to the case of Sherman Adams and said, "I need him."

From that day to this the phrase has been repeated by satirical critics without reference to anything else Mr. Eisenhower said. How many persons in the American jury can remember now just what the President really said? Did he say: "Sherman Adams is guilty, but I need him?" Did he say: "Sherman Adams is dishonest, but I need him?" These are the impressions widely current today among many members of the American jury where the facts sometimes do not catch up with widely disseminated distortions. Here is exactly what Mr. Eisenhower did say: "My own conclusions of this entire episode are as follows: I believe that the presentation made by Governor Adams to the Congressional Committee yesterday represents the pertinent facts. I personally like Governor Adams. I admire his abilities. I respect him because of his personal and official integrity. I need him."

"Admitting the lack of that careful prudence in this incident that Governor Adams yesterday referred to, I believe with my whole heart that he is an invaluable public servant doing a difficult job efficiently, honestly and tirelessly."

Nowhere in the statement is there any implication that the president thinks Sherman Adams is dishonest or corrupt or lacking in "personal and official integrity."

Why did the President use the phrase, "I need him?" He could have said, "I desire to continue his services" or "I want his services." But there was a deeper reason for the phrase, "I need him." It was, indeed, a reflection of the attitude of a President who never has and never will stoop to the levels of modern politics where the innocent are sacrificed on the altar of expediency.

Mr. Eisenhower could have amplified his thoughts as follows: "I know Sherman Adams has done nothing dishonest. I believe in his official and personal integrity. But politics being what it is, I am told that I must remove him from office because this is what the politicians expect of me. They feel that their own election to public office must be accomplished at any cost—even at the cost of a great principle."

The principle has endured for centuries. It is that no man shall be punished for a crime he didn't commit, and that every man is presumed innocent until proved guilty. To put it another way politically minded people feel that an indiscretion is the equivalent of a criminal act. Maybe it is in politics, but I never was raised in that school of thought. If politics demands that a kind of life sentence must be meted out to a man who has done nothing corrupt or dishonest, then the sooner we abandon that kind of politics in America, the longer will we survive as a truly free republic."

Once during World War II Dwight Eisenhower was confronted with a decision not unlike that in the Adams case. General George Patton had slapped a serviceman. He thought the youngster was faking illness. The General, of course, was imprudent and indiscreet. From a political standpoint, the thing to have done was to dismiss General Patton. For this would have made the headlines—"General Fired For Slapping A Private!" But the commander-in-chief of the allied armies wasn't think of headlines. He was thinking of simple justice. The Bill of Rights in the Constitution itself says that there shall be no "cruel or unusual punishments inflicted." The episode did not merit a dismissal, but a reprimand. General Eisenhower said, in effect, of General Patton: "He was wrong to slap a serviceman, and I am issuing a reprimand. I need him in this war."

The judgment of General Eisenhower was right. For General Patton's greatness as a military man was demonstrated in subsequent months during the critical operations that brought the big victory.

Today there is a "cold war" going on. It requires the utmost concentration by the President of the United States. The smooth functioning of the White House staff is an imperative need. In Sherman Adams, the president has an assistant who acts as a sort of "chief of staff." Certainly Mr. Eisenhower needs the services of Sherman Adams because of his experience and intimate knowledge of the operations of the government as they affect the White House.

But Dwight Eisenhower would not keep anybody at his side in any post if he thought that individual dishonest or corrupt. He keeps Sherman Adams because he is convinced that his assistant is both honest and efficient and has exerted no improper influence in behalf of anybody—friend or stranger. Under these circumstances, Sherman Adams will not be sacrificed to satisfy those who think the way to win elections is to put for all time the stigma of guilt on an innocent man.

In my career starting with Walter Johnson in Charlottesville training camp I have become nicle-plated to watching stars comet out.

Majority Of Accidents Are Needless, Senseless

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Accidents are a tremendous waste of life and property. The majority are needless and senseless. Let's cooperate and bring this slaughter to a halt.

There are enough statistics on accidents to fill the Pentagon, but this has not solved the problem. We know, for example, that 55 per cent of the 1957 United States highway casualties occurred on weekends; 27 per cent of the drivers were under 25 years old; 95 per cent of the vehicles involved were in good condition; and less than 15 per cent of the fatalities took place when driving conditions were bad.

We all realize it is safer to travel by air, rail, boat, bus, or truck than to drive a car. Most of us shudder on seeing an accident or reading about it but wholesome fear has not slowed down the driver. Losing the driver's license does.

When first this was done for a speeding conviction in Connecticut, fatalities dropped 14 per cent. This offers a clue to what might help in the future. We need more research on factors that influence the behavior of drivers. Education in safety is another approach that offers hope. It should be started early and made a prerequisite to obtaining a driver's license in the later years of high school. Adolescents ought to learn that driving is a privilege and that the auto is as lethal as gun or knife. Habits of safety, caution, and courtesy must be nurtured at this impressionable age.

The law and the auto industry also enter the picture. Car manufacturers are selling a potentially dangerous product. If Fords were foods and Buicks drugs, the federal government would have stepped in a long time ago.

Cars are killing more of our citizens than all the foods and drugs combined, yet there appears to be marked apathy on the part of many authorities about serving the best interests of the people. Public opinion will bring this situation to a head unless we receive more cooperation from these groups.

Ringworm of the scalp is unusual in adults. The spots you mention are more likely to be alopecia areata, the exact cause of which is poorly understood. The condition often follows periods of worry or nervous tension. The hair comes out suddenly in a patchy pattern but regrowth often occurs. The majority of treatments are aimed at stimulating the deficient hair follicles.

WHOLESALE CELL TESTS Mrs. R. writes: Should all women over 30 have a cell test of the uterus every three months? REPLY

At present, this test is recommended annually for women over 40. The procedure is time consuming and there are not enough technicians in this country to test all women once a year, let alone every three months. Perhaps a do-it-yourself technique will be worked out in the future.

STREP SUSCEPTIBILITY Mrs. D. writes: My 6 year old child was healthy until he entered school and since then has had scarlet fever and three other strep infections. Does one bout of strep infection make a child more susceptible to this germ? REPLY

No, but going to school does. The youngster comes into close contact with other children and is exposed to anyone who has a cold.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Army Dealt Differently With Gift From Man Engaged In Defense Work

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—While Sherman Adams was receiving gifts totaling over $5,000 from one of his "dearest friends," Bernard Goldfine, another case of gift-giving was dealt with more harshly in the Army.

Col. George Kibler, an engineering procurement officer, had reported that Arthur Venneri of East Westfield, N. J., handed him an envelope containing $1,000.

Colonel Kibler, who is attached to the Pentagon, reported the "gratuity" in May, 1957, and the following July the Gratuities Board provisionally suspended Venneri's firm from defense work. It was not until March 13, 1958, however, that the Board formally determined that the $1,000 was a gratuity for the purpose of influencing a defense contract. In accordance with this, the Board officially notified Venneri last May 7 that he would be barred from working for the defense establishments for one year.

Venneri then wrote a pathetic letter to Assistant Secretary Frank Higgins appealing for relief. He explained that he had come to this country from Italy in 1920, had worked as a carpenter by day and gone to night school until he worked his way up to become a construction superintendent and finally formed his own company. He had been active in church and civic affairs, had a fine family, and had not meant the $1,000 as a bribe. He said he had genuinely wanted to help the officer with the education of his son.

Venneri went on to explain that almost his entire business was with the government and if he was suspended from such business it would almost put him into bankruptcy.

Secretary Higgins was so impressed with the letter that he took it home over the week end to try to decide what to do.

The situation had some similarities with that of Bernard Goldfine and his gifts to Adams. Like Goldfine, Venneri was an immigrant. He too claimed friendship with an official of government. Sherman Adams, however, had not reported the much more expensive gifts from his friend while Colonel Kibler had. Adams had also intervened actively for Goldfine's company on at least three occasions. Colonel Kibler had done the opposite.

Assistant Secretary Higgins finally ruled against Venneri. The one-year suspension, he wrote, would have to stand.

Note — When Vice President Nixon was in the Navy as contract officer negotiating with the Erco Company of Maryland, he borrowed $150 from the company. Such a loan is illegal. Unlike Colonel Kibler, he did not report it.

Another Room Bugged

Jack Lotto, the ex-INS newsman whose new job it is to glamorize Bernard Goldfine, has an interesting record. He has written much of the record himself and it shows that those who live in glass hotel rooms should not throw stones.

In an interview published in Editor and Publisher, Dec. 22, 1956, Mr. Lotto told in detail how he and two other newsmen, including the late Bert Andrews of the New York Herald Tribune, bugged the Hotel Commodore room in which Richard Nixon was holding a secret conference between Whittaker Chambers and Alger Hiss.

"To this day Nixon probably doesn't know how we knew what was going on inside," said Lotto. "We got a hearing aid used by the third reporter, pressed it to the door, turned up the volume, and tuned in on it, play by play. The papers had the story by the time Nixon came out of the room."

Lotto is the man who complained loudly and ostentatiously when the ex-chief investigator of the Harris committee placed a listening device next to Lotto's room in the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel.

Those Mysterious Checks

Some members of the Harris committee are wondering whether the mysterious uncashed checks which Bernard Goldfine doesn't want to talk about may not be delayed salary checks to be cashed years later when income taxes might be lower.

They consider it significant that some of the checks date back to 1941 before pay-as-you-go income taxes were established. A man in the higher tax brackets could have his company pay him a large check and keep it for a period of years until either Congress reduced taxes, or his own income might decrease. Then he could cash the checks without paying high taxes on them.

If this was the Goldfine strategy, he may find himself in more tax trouble than he is today. For, under the doctrine of constructive receipt, any person who receives a check must pay taxes on it the year he receives it, whether he cashes it or not.

Goldfine has already failed to file a state income tax return for 1956, failed to submit a Federal tax return for the same year, has asked for an extension of time on his 1957 tax return, and owes the city of Boston $147,000 in real estate taxes.

Maybe he should have spent more money on taxes and less on gifts, pearl stickpins for plainclothes men, ornate hotel suites, and liquor and caviar for newsmen. Or maybe he figured that if he knew the right people he would not be "subject to the same laws as the rest of us."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

There is a Protestant minister in the Northwest who has been punished for explaining sex to his teen-agers. The punishment consisted of public humiliation, an apology to a board of education, and a promise not to mention the word to students again. I'm with the minister. Sex is a source of trouble only to those who do not understand it.

Sex was invented by God, not by man. Therefore it is not evil; it is good. Sex was sanctified as an act of communion in marriage. The use of sex at any other time was condemned in the Old Testament and the New because, then and now, it was regarded as a bottomless pool in which only the strongest swimmers survive.

My wife was opposed to any discussion of sex with the children. We had two girls. She was somewhat embarrassed if I lingered for more than a peck on the cheek in their presence. She, like many other mothers, had feelings of guilt about sex.

Still, I insisted that we tell the girls something—a little bit at a time—so that the full knowledge of procreation would not come as a shock from the gutter. I broke the ice. I told Ginny that she grew in her mother's heart and that, when God thought she was strong enough to do her own breathing and eating, He permitted her to be born.

Elinor thought that this story was "kind of cute." Then I found a book called "Growing Up." It was all about whales and elephants and ants and worms and horses having babies; how long it required for the little ones to be born, how they were born, and so forth. A woman bookstore clerk assured me that a child will get out of this book only as much as he or she is ready to absorb—no more. She was right.

The more my little ones learned about sex, the more they appreciated their mother. It brought the three of them closer together in understanding, in kinship. Virginia Lee was 14 when she came in from the backyard with a worm on a stick. Elinor was washing breakfast dishes. "Mom, take a look," Ginny said. "A pregnant worm."

"A what what?" her mother

said, almost jumping into the sink.

"I learned it in biology class. See that yellow sac on the worm? It's a baby. In time, it will move from one end of the worm to the other. When it falls off, that's a baby worm."

"This is your father's fault," Elinor said. "Get that thing out of here."

"Okay. Mom. Still, it's interesting to know that all worms are bi-sexual. When they meet each other underground, they don't have to ask which is male and which is female. All of them can have babies."

"Take the worm out, and you get out too."

Ginny is now married, and is about to have her first baby. She feels healthy and happy. "If it is always like this," she said to me, "I want to have six in a row." She thinks happy thoughts.

Ginny has contributed to Gayle's sex education, a step at a time, until now the younger girl understands what God and her church expect of her in these matters. I have never spent a moment in worry over either of these girls, and I won't. They know.

One of the most important things they had to learn was that the male often confuses sex and love. He was given a built-in sex drive so that he would pursue the female. If he didn't have this—if he was passive—there would be no urge to marry. Conversely, the female has a built-in drive to adorn herself so that she will attract the male. If she doesn't attract—the male has no urge to marry her.

The minister, as I understand the case, was teaching far less to his students than I am telling in this space. To my way of thinking, this holy man deserves accolades, not censure. He is trying to lift the veil of mystery from a subject that becomes evil only when it is suppressed.

I would like to meet the ladies and gentlemen who form the Board of Education that degraded him. I would like to stare down into their beady eyes and ask one question: "If it wasn't for sex, where would you be right now?"

Batista May Face Even Stormier Times

Reports from Cuba, dramatized by the rebel abduction of American and Canadian citizens, indicate that President Batista is headed for still stormier times.

Rebel forces led by Fidel Castro seem to have recovered from their disastrous defeat when they attempted to take over the government several months ago. They are well entrenched in rugged terrain from which the Batista army has been unable to dislodge them. Castro, feeding on rising hatred of the dictatorial Batista regime, seems to have increased his strength geographically and in number of followers.

Batista might have been able to contain the rebellion except for the extreme violence he applied to captives, many of them only suspected of being rebels. Similar atrocities, then committed by the ruling Spaniards, once caused the United States to send military forces to free Cuba.

Castro has turned to violence and atrocity in retaliation. Castro's charge that the U. S. fuels Cuban government planes to attack rebels is denied by Washington. But if he continues kidnapping U. S. citizens, sooner or later Cuban savagery may be employed and a situation created that will force Washington to act.

Indications that Dictator Batista's days may be numbered compel a closer look at Castro. Is he any better? Are rumors of his communist sympathies correct? These are matters which the State Department undoubtedly has considered and will be prepared to act upon when and if the Cuban government changes.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The 1958 Campaign Moves

No political party, not even one that is motivated by pollsters, as the Republicans are, can afford to acknowledge that it faces a sharp defeat in a forthcoming election. Its motto is always, "Excellence!" and it goes forward with the hopefulness of exulting youth until it disappears as the Whig Party disappeared.

Nevertheless, for practical purposes, it is clear that the Republican Party has pursued a suicidal political policy during the Eisenhower Administration and that the Democrats will take full advantage of the situation in both the 1958 and 1960 campaigns. The Republicans have, however, some hopes:

1. That the recession will be dissipated before Election Day and that the people will be cognizant of better times. This can, in no manner, be affected by advertising, television, or propaganda in any form. It is a matter of individual well-being and a sense of security.

2. That the Democrats will overdo their anti-Republican investigations to the point where they will boomerang. The Republicans are not altogether displeased with Oren Harris's operations of the House Committee investigating Sherman Adams. It has been a badly done job which is beginning to evoke sympathy for Adams.

3. That individual candidates might draw strength in particular states. It is such a hope which motivates the candidacy of Nelson Rockefeller for Governor in New York State. The assumption is that the Rockefeller have done so much for New York City and that they have such a good name, that it will carry Nelson Rockefeller into the Governorship.

Such hopes as these are not within the realm of political practicality. The Republican Party between 1932 and 1952 managed to keep itself intact as the conservative element in the country, opposed to the New Deal and the Fair Deal and antagonistic to what it called, creeping socialism, a term invented by Herbert Hoover. The character of the party might best be described by the fact that during most of this period, Senator Robert A. Taft was its leader. However due entirely to big business influence, Taft could never be nominated for President because the pollsters and the advertising consultants on Madison Avenue had decided that Taft could not be elected.

Their own selections, Alf Landon, Wendell Willkie, Thomas E. Dewey, also could not be elected which proves that their political judgment as to what it would have taken to defeat Roosevelt or Truman was amateurish, until they found Dwight D. Eisenhower, a product of the course of events. Politically, Eisenhower made the mistake from the outset of failing to recognize that he had to be a partisan to operate successfully within the American system. He set out to destroy the conservative Republicans and although there is some appearance of success, the fact is that the rank and file of the Republican Party remain conservative and that many of them have not voted in a Presidential election since 1940.

New York State is an excellent example of what has happened. The state party organization has no standing and provides no leadership. Such a mass vote as New York County is irrevocably gone to the Democrats and to the Liberal Party. The Republican Party does not attract young and new voters in this area, except for some young lawyers who see a quicker chance to emerge in a minority party. But that leads to quarrels among ambitious youngsters seeking the benefits of bi-partisan references which bring money to individuals but nothing to a political party.

Thus Nelson Rockefeller, who has apparently been assured that he can defeat Governor Averell Harriman, moves into a strictly political fight without enough of a party to support him. Whereas the Liberal Party has been friendly to Rockefeller when he was an appointee in the Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower Administrations, that party, for whatever its strength is worth, will support the Democratic Party, as it always has.

Although some Democrats say that James A. Farley cannot be nominated for United States Senator because of Liberal Party opposition, no leader of the Liberal Party has made such a statement and it can be prognosticated that should Farley be nominated, the Liberal Party will endorse him and that Farley will be elected.

In other states in the Northeast, similar conditions prevail and the Democrats are very confident for 1958.

Sherman Adams Will Not Be Sacrificed

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Trial by jury is an institution of which Americans are justly proud. But trial by headlines and fragmentary statements—twisted out of context by politicians—is something of which nobody can be proud. For it means that a man must be considered guilty until he can prove himself innocent. This is the reverse of what Americans have always been taught.

Nearly a month has gone by since President Eisenhower in a press conference referred to the case of Sherman Adams and said, "I need him." From that day to this the phrase has been repeated by satirical critics without reference to anything else Mr. Eisenhower said. How many persons in the American jury can remember now just what the President really said? Did he say: "Sherman Adams is guilty, but I need him?" Did he say: "Sherman Adams is dishonest, but I need him?" These are the impressions widely current today among many members of the American jury where the facts sometimes do not catch up with widely disseminated distortions. Here is exactly what Mr. Eisenhower did say:

"My own conclusions of this entire episode are as follows: I believe that the presentation made by Governor Adams to the Congressional Committee yesterday represents the pertinent facts. I personally like Governor Adams. I admire his abilities. I respect him because of his personal and official integrity. I need him."

"Admitting the lack of that careful prudence in this incident that Governor Adams yesterday referred to, I believe with my whole heart that he is an invaluable public servant doing a difficult job efficiently, honestly and tirelessly."

Nowhere in the statement is there any implication that the president thinks Sherman Adams is dishonest or corrupt or lacking in "personal and official integrity."

Why did the President use the phrase, "I need him?" He could have said, "I desire to continue his services" or "I want his services." But there was a deeper reason for the phrase, "I need him." It was, indeed, a reflection of the attitude of a President who never has and never will stoop to the levels of modern politics where the innocent are sacrificed on the altar of expediency.

Mr. Eisenhower could have amplified his thoughts as follows: "I know Sherman Adams has done nothing dishonest. I believe in his official and personal integrity. But politics being what it is, I am told that I must remove him from office because this is what the politicians expect of me. They feel that their own election to public office must be accomplished at any cost—even at the cost of a great principle."

The principle has endured for centuries. It is that no man shall be punished for a crime he didn't commit, and that every man is presumed innocent until proved guilty. To put it another way politically minded people feel that an indictment is the equivalent of a criminal act. Maybe it is in politics, but I never was raised in that school of thought. You can write it down that Sherman Adams will resign during the Labor Day week end. Congress won't be in session then and it's figured that not many people read the papers at the end of the dog days . . . Jacqueline Cochran (wife of Wall Street tycoon Floyd Odlum) canceled a speaking engagement before the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs on a plea that Eisenhower had appointed her to a special mission soon to be announced and that the White House advised against any speaking appearances. She was to have appeared on the Mike Wallace TV show . . . Miss Cochran is the lady who was defeated for Congress by Judge D. Saund in California's Imperial Valley in 1956. During the war she ran the lady fliers of the Air Corps.

There is a Protestant minister in the Northwest who has been punished for explaining sex to his teen-agers. The punishment consisted of public humiliation, an apology to a board of education, and a promise not to mention the word to students again. I'm with the minister. Sex is a source of trouble only to those who do not understand it.

Sex was invented by God, not by man. Therefore it is not evil; it is good. Sex was sanctified as an act of communion in marriage. The use of sex at any other time was condemned in the Old Testament and the New because, then and now, it was regarded as a bottomless pool in which only the strongest swimmers survive.

My wife was opposed to any discussion of sex with the children. We had two girls. She was somewhat embarrassed if I lingered for more than a peck on the cheek in their presence. She, like many other mothers, had feelings of guilt about sex.

Still, I insisted that we tell the girls something—a little bit at a time—so that the full knowledge of procreation would not come as a shock from the gutter. I broke the ice. I told Ginny that she grew in her mother's heart and that, when God thought she was strong enough to do her own breathing and eating. He permitted her to be born.

Elinor thought that this story was "kind of cute." Then I found a book called "Growing Up." It was all about whales and elephants and ants and worms and horses having babies; how long it required for the little ones to be born, how they were born, and so forth. A woman bookstore clerk assured me that a child will get out of this book only as much as he or she is ready to absorb—no more. She was right.

The more my little ones learned about sex, the more they appreciated their mother. It brought the three of them closer together in understanding, in kinship. Virginia Lee was 14 when she came in from the backyard with a worm on a stick. Elinor was washing breakfast dishes.

"Mom, take a look," Ginny said. "A pregnant worm!"

"A what what?" her mother

said, almost jumping into the sink.

"I learned it in biology class. See that yellow sac on the worm? It's a baby. In time, it will move from one end of the worm to the other. When it falls off, that's a baby worm."

"This is your father's fault," Elinor said. "Get that thing out of here."

"Okay. Mom. Still, it all warns to know that all worms are bi-sexual. When they meet each other underground, they don't have to ask which is male and which is female. All of them can have babies."

"Take the worm out, and you get out too."

Ginny is now married, and is about to have her first baby. She feels healthy and happy. "If it is always like this," she said to me, "I want to have six in a row." She thinks happy thoughts.

Ginny has contributed to Gayle's sex education, a step at a time, until now the younger girl understands what God and her church expect of her in these matters. I have never spent a moment in worry over either of these girls, and I won't. They know.

One of the most important things they had to learn was that the male often confuses sex and love. He was given a built-in sex drive so that he would pursue the female. If he didn't have this—if he was passive—there would be no urge to marry. Conversely, the female has a built-in drive to adorn herself so that she will attract the male. If she doesn't attract—the male has no urge to marry her.

The minister, as I understand the case, was teaching far less to his students than I am telling in this statement. To my way of thinking, this holy man deserves accolades, not censure. He is trying to lift the veil of mystery from a subject that becomes evil only when it is suppressed.

I would like to meet the ladies and gentlemen who form the Board of Education that degraded him. I would like to stare down into their beady eyes and ask one question: "If it wasn't for sex, where would you be right now?"

Giants Grab N.L. Lead; Pirates, Cubs Win Pair

'Frisko Beats Milwaukee In 9th Frame, 6-5

Single By Rookie Felipe Alou Knocks Braves Out Of 1st

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rookie outfielder Felipe Alou singled to end the winning run in the last of the ninth Sunday, giving San Francisco a 6-5 victory over Milwaukee that boosted the Giants over the Braves into the National League lead.

Alou, who entered the game as an outfielder in the top of the ninth, went to bat with one out, Willie Mays on second and Orlando Cepeda on first. With a count of one strike and one ball, Felipe hit a pitch from reliever Ernie Johnson on the ground into left field, scoring Mays without trouble.

Braves Lose Lead

The triumph put the Giants into the top spot by one-half game, the first time Milwaukee has been out of it since June 11.

Johnson drew the defeat, his first against three victories. A 19-year-old lefthander, Mike McCormick, the third Giant pitcher, gained his sixth triumph against one setback.

McCormick came on in the top of the ninth with the Giants leading 5-4. The Braves ended the count on a single by Del Crandall, a two-bash throw by McCormick when he overthrew on a pick-off play and a single by Red Schoendienst.

Milwaukee grabbed command with four runs in the first inning, three of them scoring with two out after rookie leftfielder Ron Wagner misjudged a high fly from Johnny Logan.

The Giants finally scored against starter Carl Willey in the sixth when Ray Jablonski blasted a 380-foot homer to left and rookie catcher Bob Schmidt doubled in a second run.

Cepeda belted 19th Three more runs came to the home club in the eighth, starting with Orlando Cepeda's 19th homer of the year.

Buppert, Beman Cop Anderson Tourney

MAMARONECK, N. Y. (AP)—Dean Beman and Bill Buppert of Bethesda, Md., who just managed to qualify for the match play, Sunday won the John G. Anderson Memorial Golf Tournament at the Winged Foot Club.

The 20-year-old Beman and the 26-year-old Buppert continued their succession of surprising victories by downing the Westchester C. C. pair of Tommy Goodwin and Bob Sweeney 2 and 1 in the 36-hole final.

From the moment Beman sank a 20-foot putt on the third hole to square the match during the morning play, it became a run for the new B and B boys who come from the same Washington area as Ralph Bogart and Bob Brownell, the dethroned champions.

Coast Man Plans To Start New Pro League In 1959

By CHARLES MAHER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jack Corbett is fading deep in his own end zone to take the ball for what looks like an impossible runback.

But he thinks he can see daylight downfield. All Corbett is trying to do, you see, is organize another professional football league. And what's so hard about that?

Well, for one thing, there's the National Football League, a fairly solid 12-team organization that would seem to have a pretty good—if not downright ideal—corner on football talent.

Is Corbett worried? Nah.

"We're going to draw our personnel from the colleges, the same place anybody else gets them," says the former baseball executive. "We have men out looking for hallplayers already."

"We've got eight or nine definite franchises granted and we won't have any trouble strating with 12 teams in 1959. It'll be called the International Football League."

"We're not in competition with the NFL. We're not in any town the NFL is in."

"We're going to have to pay players more than the NFL. I figure the low salary will be $1,000 or $1,500 more than the low in the NFL."

What towns are in the new league, what fields will be used, and who are some of the organizers? Corbett's rundown:

Brooklyn—Ebbets Field.

Miami—Orange Bowl; Harvey Haster and Joe Kane, former club owners in the old All-American Conference.

Louisville—Kentucky State Fair Stadium; Bill Henry, head of state fair exposition promotions.

Dallas—Cotton Bowl; George Scheppe, general manager of the Dallas Rangers baseball club.

Denver—American Assn. ballpark; Bob Howsam, president of the Denver Bears baseball club.

Minneapolis-St. Paul—One of the American Assn. parks.

Houston—Site unannounced; Eddie Dyer, former St. Louis Cardinal manager.

Boston—Site unannounced.

"We also have Crosley Field in Cincinnati," says Corbett.

"But the group that was to take the franchise apparently bought into a basketball franchise. We're

Kansas City Loses Two To Senators

Yost Wallops Pair In 2-0 And 4-2 Wins

WASHINGTON (AP)—With Camilo Pascual pitching six-hit ball, Washington defeated the Kansas City Athletics 2-0 in the first game of a doubleheader Sunday. The Senators then made it a sweep by winning the nightcap 4-2 on two home runs by Eddie Yost.

John Romonosky, 29-year-old rookie called up last Tuesday from their class A farm at Charlotte in the Sally League, was credited with the Senators' victory in the second game. Romonosky yielded only three hits and two runs, one unearned in the seven innings he worked. He walked only one.

Dick Hyde, a 5-2 pitcher for the Senators, hurled two scoreless innings to mop up for Romonosky. Ned Garver was charged with his sixth defeat against eight victories in this second game. Yost tagged him for a leadoff homer in the first inning. Then, trailing 2-1, the Senators hopped on Ned for the three decisive runs to help complete their third doubleheader sweep of the season. They won no doubleheaders last year.

In the first game, Pascual fanned ten and permitted only three balls, besides the six A's hits, to be lofted beyond the infield. He walked none.

The Senators gave the 24-year-old Cuban curveballer the two runs he needed in the first inning as they chased K.C. starter Ralph Terry. Singles by Albie Pearson, Roy Sievers and Clint Courtney got one run home, and Neil Chrissy's single drove in the second.

also thinking of St. Louis, Milwaukee and Buffalo.

"Our clubs have got to operate on the same basis as a NFL or major league baseball club. We haven't got anybody—and we won't let anybody in—who isn't ready to start the financial ball rolling."

"Fellow in Miami called the other day and said he's figuring on selling 40,000 season tickets."

Corbett owned the Atlanta baseball club in 1923 and 1924, owned the Jersey City and Syracuse baseball franchises in the thirties and owned El Paso in the Texas League in 1949 and 1950. Right now he's head of the firm that makes baseball bases.

He says they're used by every club in the National League, by four in the American and by 100 minor league teams.

Corbett says he has no financial interest in any of the teams in the proposed new league, but adds: "I expect to be repaid for organizing. The worst guy in the world is somebody who's doing something for nothing."

Dodgers Belt Five Homers, Sink Redlegs

Young Hurlers Win Twin Bill, 3-0, 3-2

By CHARLES MAHER

Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers whipped Cincinnati twice Sunday, turning the trick with five home runs and their two youngest pitchers, Stan Williams and Bob Giallombardo. The scores were 3-0 and 3-2.

Williams, a burly 21-year-old right-hander, struck out 10 and surrendered only three hits in the eight innings he worked in the first game. He gained his fourth victory in seven decisions. Don Newcombe, traded to the Redlegs last month after seven full seasons with the Dodgers, took the loss, his ninth of the year. He has won only one.

Giallombardo, another 21-year-old, picked up his first major league victory in the second game and evened his record at 1-1. He beat lefty Joe Nuxhall, who gave up only four hits in eight innings. Nuxhall's record now is 5-5.

Clem Labine came on in relief for the Dodgers in both games.

All Dodger runs in both games resulted from homers.

Carl Furillo slammed his ninth with the bases empty in the opener and Charley Neal hit his 16th with Furillo aboard in the 16th game.

In the nightcap, Junior Gilliam, Guy Pignatano and Steve Bilko all connected with the bases empty.

Two of Williams' first three victories were complete game shutouts and he nearly had another Sunday. The Redlegs got runners as far as second base against him only twice, but with none out in the ninth they had men on first and second with walks and Labine came on in relief. He got Bailey on a pop and pinch hitter Smokey Burgess hit into a double play.

Hitting Of Skinner, Mazerowski Produces 15 Pittsburgh Runs

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The hitting of Bill Mazerowski and Bob Skinner produced 15 runs for the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday in a 10-8 and 8-6 doubleheader sweep over their season-long tormentors, the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Pirates had dropped eight straight games to the Redbirds before striking back Sunday.

Mazerowski was a perfect 4-for-4 with his 10th homer and three runs batted in in the second game. He had six hits, scored four and batted in four during the day.

Skinner, who hit his 7th homer in the opener, had five hits, scored three and batted in four for the two games.

In winning the doubleheader the Pirates lost a third baseman—Gene Baker, who ruptured a leg ligament and probably will be out for the season. Baker fell heavily in fielding a grounder in the eighth inning of the opener.

Baker's knee was in a cast and he was on crutches during the second game. He will return to Pittsburgh to undergo surgery.

The Pirates made a crowd of 27,444 unhappy by twice scoring five runs after two were out, once in each game. Starter Lindy McDaniel was the victim in the first inning of the second game.

Larry Jackson and Jim Brosnan were clipped for a five-run first inning which wiped out a 5-1 St. Louis lead in the first game.

Giants Grab N.L. Lead; Pirates And Cubs Win Pair

'Frisco Beats Milwaukee In 9th Frame, 6-5

Single By Rookie Felipe Alou Knocks Braves Out Of 1st

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rookie outfielder Felipe Alou singled home the winning run in the ninth Sunday, giving San Francisco a 6-5 victory over Milwaukee that boosted the Giants over the Braves into the National League lead.

Alou, who entered the game as an outfielder in the top of the ninth, went to bat with one out, Willie Mays on second and Orlando Cepeda on first. With a count of one strike and one ball, Felipe hit a pitch from reliever Ernie Johnson on the ground into left field, scoring Mays without trouble.

Braves Lose Lead

The triumph put the Giants into the top spot by one-half game, the first time Milwaukee has been out of it since June 11.

Johnson drew the defeat, his first against three victories. A 19-year-old lefthander, Mike McCormick, the third Giant pitcher, gained his sixth triumph against one setback.

McCormick came on in the top of the ninth with the Giants leading 5-4. The Braves evened the count on a single by Del Crandall, a two-base wild throw by McCormick when he overthrew on a pick-off play and a single by Red Schoendienst.

Milwaukee grabbed command with four runs in the first inning, three of them scoring with two out after rookie leftfielder Ron Wagner misjudged a high fly from Johnny Logan.

Cepeda Belts 19th

Three more runs came to the home club in the eighth, starting with Orlando Cepeda's 19th homer of the year.

Coast Man Plans To Start New Pro League In 1959

By CHARLES MAHER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jack Corbett is fading deep in his own end zone to take the ball for what looks like an impossible runback.

But he thinks he can see daylight downfield.

All Corbett is trying to do, you see, is organize another professional football league. And what's so hard about that?

Well, for one thing, there's the National Football League, a fairly solid 12-team organization that would seem to have a pretty good—if not downright ideal—corner on football talent.

Is Corbett worried? Nah.

"We're going to draw our personnel from the colleges, the same place anybody else gets them," says the former baseball executive. "We have men out looking for ballplayers already."

"We've got eight or nine definite franchises granted and we won't have any trouble strating with 12 teams in 1959. It'll be called the International Football League."

"We're not in competition with the NFL. We're not in any town the NFL is in."

"We're going to have to pay players more than the NFL. I figure the low salary will be $1,000 or $1,500 more than the low in the NFL."

What towns are in the new league, what fields will be used, and who are some of the organizers? Corbett's rundown:

Brooklyn—Ebbets Field.

Miami—Orange Bowl; Harvey Haster and Joe Kane, former club owners in the old All-America Conference.

Louisville—Kentucky State Fair Stadium; Bill Henry, head of state fair exposition promotions.

Dallas—Cotton Bowl; George Schepas, general manager of the Dallas Rangers baseball club.

Denver—American Assn. ballpark; Bob Howsam, president of the Denver Bears baseball club.

Minneapolis-St. Paul—One of the American Assn. parks.

Houston—Site unannounced; Eddie Dyer, former St. Louis Cardinal manager.

Boston—Site unannounced.

"We also have Crosley Field in Cincinnati," says Corbett.

"But the group that was to take the franchise apparently bought into a basketball franchise. We're out of there."

Kansas City Loses Two To Senators

WASHINGTON (AP)—Camilo Pascual pitching six-hit ball, Washington defeated the Kansas City Athletics 2-0 in the first game of a doubleheader Sunday.

The Senators then made it a sweep by winning the nightcap 4-2 on two home runs by Eddie Yost.

John Romonosky, 29-year-old rookie called up last Tuesday from their class A farm at Charlotte in the Sally League, was credited with the Senators' victory in the second game. Romonosky yielded only three hits and two runs, one unearned in the seven innings he worked. He walked only one.

Dick Hyde, a 5-2 pitcher for the Senators, hurled two scoreless innings to mop up for Romonosky.

Ned Garver was charged with his sixth defeat against eight victories in this second game. Yost tagged him for a leadoff homer in the first inning. Then, trailing 2-1, the Senators hopped on 2d for the three decisive runs to help complete their third doubleheader sweep of the season. They won no doubleheaders last year.

In the first game, Pascual fanned three and permitted only three balls, besides the six A's hits, to be lofted beyond the infield. He walked none.

The Senators gave the 24-year-old Cuban curveballer the two runs he needed in the first inning as they chased K.C. starter Ralph Terry. Singles by Albie Pearson, Roy Sievers and Clint Courtney got one run home, and Neil Christley's single drove in the second.

JACK CORBETT

also thinking of St. Louis, Milwaukee and Buffalo.

"Our clubs have got to operate on the same basis as a NFL or major league baseball club. We haven't got anybody—and we won't let anybody in—who isn't ready to start the financial ball rolling."

"Follow in Miami called the other day and said he's figuring on selling 40,000 season tickets."

Corbett owned the Atlanta baseball club in 1923 and 1924, owned the Jersey City and Syracuse baseball franchises in the thirties and owned El Paso in the Texas League in 1949 and 1950. Right now he's head of the firm that makes baseball bats.

He says they're used by every club in the National League, by four in the American and by 100 minor league teams.

Corbett says he has no financial interest in any of the teams in the proposed new league, but adds: "I expect to be repaid for organizing. The worst guy in the world is somebody who's doing something for nothing."

Buccos Whip Cards Twice, 10-8 And 8-6

Hitting Of Skinner, Mazerowski Produces 15 Pittsburgh Runs

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The hitting of Bill Mazerowski and Bob Skinner produced 15 runs for the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday in a 10-8 and 8-6 doubleheader sweep over their season-long tormentors, the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Pirates had dropped eight straight games to the Redbirds before striking back Sunday.

Mazerowski was a perfect 4-for-4 with his 10th homer and three runs batted in in the second game. He had six hits, scored four and batted in four during the day.

Skinner, who hit his 7th homer in the opener, had five hits, scored three and batted in four for the two games.

In winning the doubleheader the Pirates lost a third baseman—Gene Baker, who ruptured a leg ligament and probably will be out for the season. Baker fell heavily in fielding a grounder in the eighth inning of the opener.

Baker's knee was in a cast and he was on crutches during the second game. He will return to Pittsburgh to undergo surgery.

The Pirates made a crowd of 27,844 unhappy by twice scoring five runs after two were out, once in each game. Starter Lindy McDaniel was the victim in the first inning of the second game.

Larry Jackson and Jim Brosnan were clipped for a five-run first inning which wiped out a 5-1 St. Louis lead in the first game.

During the riotous 4th the Countians to their fourth consecutive victory and moved the Sluggers within a half game of the deadlocked first place teams. It was his fifth win of the season against a single setback.

Bobby Tight In Pinches
Barrelville nicked the offerings of Dawson for 10 safeties but they were unable to do much with the Sluggers' righthander in the pinches. The Old Exports had scored 90 runs during their six-game streak but were limited to one tally in the third and one in the fourth in yesterday's game. Dawson fanned five.

Bobby Raines worked eight innings for Barrelville, yielded six hits, fanned 11 and was charged with the loss. Jim Clingan, former minor league hurler, hurled the 9th inning for the Old Exports and struck out the three batters he faced, D. Wenger, Llewellyn and Dawson. Raines has won four games and lost three.

John Keister obtained two of the Sluggers' six hits while Tucker Cain rapped a two-bagger. Harold Hudson smacked a double and two singles and Ronnie Cage garnered a pair of base knocks for the losers.

Barrelville had beaten Grantsville in the first two games of their series by scores of 9-2 and 13-2.

Hyndman Gets 8 In 4th
Manager Bob Bryant's Hyndman Merchants scored eight runs in the fourth inning in routing Mt. Savage.

During the riotous 4th the Pennsylvanians grouped three passes with an error, sacrifice fly five singles and a two-bagger. Ralph Dickel, starting pitcher, was batted out and Bob Dickel, Folk, Arnone and Kline paraded to the rubber before the Merchants were stopped.

Clay Leydig opened the rally with a double, Bob See, Jim Leydig, Gary Lehman, Clay Leydig and Bob Bryant singled, Pete Deremer, Gene Stair and Lou Hite drew passes, Bob Cook got a life on an error and Cliff Clites batted in a run with a sacrifice fly during the wild inning. The score was 3-3 before Hyndman began teeing off.

Clay Leydig led the assault with four hits in five trips. Manager Bryant pounded a double and single, Cliff Clites smacked a pair of two-baggers and Bob "Ab" See banged a double and single for the Merchants. Jim Leydig, who was relieved by Glenn Deremer in the 8th, registered his fourth win against no defeats this season. Ralph Dickel's record is 5-4.

Mt. Savage's 13 hits were all singles. Lennox and Arnone had three each and Often and Kline had a pair apiece.

Flinstone Ends Famine
Blanked for eight innings, Flinstone scored six runs in the ninth inning to edge Wellsburg, 6-5, and break a 14-game losing streak. It was the Farmers' first victory since May 17 when they beat Wellsburg by the score of 2-0.

Eddie Weaver's two-base belt batted in the tying and winning runs to climax the final frame rally. The explosion was marked by walks to Joe Deremer and Leo Williams, singles by Dwight Morris and Jim Fletcher, doubles by Walter Hillegas and Weaver and an error.

Lefty Bill Hook, who had lost a 4-3 decision to Mt. Savage on July 4 in his initial start for the Farmers, went the distance yesterday to notch his initial victory. He gave up nine hits, fanned one and issued three passes. Ronnie Neubeiser, who supplanted Russ Jones during the 9th inning uprising, was charged with the loss. Jones fanned six and walked four while Neubeiser gave up two passes.

Weaver featured in centerfield for Flinstone with eight putouts to his credit. He also smacked a pair of two-baggers while Hook garnered two one-base knocks. Witt obtained three of Wellsburg's nine safeties.

Zihlman exploded for seven runs in the sixth frame to whip Salisbury's Cardinals at Zihlman by the score of 9-6.

In the big inning Jack Anderson walked and doubled, Denny Shuck, George Allen, Dave Richards and Kenny Johnson singled.

Tigers Capture Pair And Bound Into 2nd Place

Detroit Defeats Orioles, 6-5, 5-3

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Detroit Tigers bounded into second place in the American League race Sunday with a double victory over the Baltimore Orioles. After edging past the Birds 6-5 in the opener, the Tigers knocked out Billy O'Dell, hero of the All-Star game, while taking the second 5-3. Baltimore almost pulled the second game out of the fire in the last of the ninth. They loaded the bases on a single and two walks, but Bill Fischer who hurled the last inning of the first game, came in to get Dick Williams on a force play for the final out.

O'Dell just didn't have it. He left in the seventh for a pinch hitter while the Orioles trailed 4-3.

Batmen pitched hit three Detroit batters. One of the wild flings may prove costly to the Tigers. In the first inning of the first game, Baltimore's Charley Beamon threw a fast inside pitch that Al Kaline couldn't duck away from, and the ball hit the Tiger outfielder on the inside right wrist, causing a painful bruise. X-rays showed no bones broken.

Kaline kept his wrist in ice for four hours, then the medics put his arm in a sling.

Grantsville Slugs Winning Streak Of Barrelville, 5-2

Hyndman Is 12-4 Victor, Ties For 1st

Farmers Snap Loss Strifing Of 14 Games; Zihlman Triumphs

PEN-MAR LEAGUE
Standing Of The Teams

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Hyndman	14	3	.824
Barrelville	14	4	.776
Grantsville	14	4	.776
Salisbury	8	9	.471
Mt. Savage	8	10	.444
Zihlman	7	10	.412
Wellington	4	15	.211
Flintstone	2	16	.111

Bobby Dawson and the Grantsville Slugs broke the six-game winning streak of the Barrelville Old Exports yesterday at Barrelville by the score of 5-2 and the upset enabled the Hyndman Merchants to tie Barrelville for first place in the Pen-Mar Baseball League when they knocked the Mt. Savage Old Germans at Hyndman to the tune of 12-4.

During the riotous 4th the Countians to their fourth consecutive victory and moved the Sluggers within a half game of the deadlocked first place teams. It was his fifth win of the season against a single setback.

Bobby Tight In Pinches
Barrelville nicked the offerings of Dawson for 10 safeties but they were unable to do much with the Sluggers' righthander in the pinches. The Old Exports had scored 90 runs during their three-game streak but were limited to one tally in the third and one in the fourth in yesterday's game. Dawson fanned five.

Bobby Raines worked eight innings for Barrelville, yielded six hits, fanned 11 and was charged with the loss. Jim Clingan, former minor league hurler, hurled the 9th inning for the Old Exports and struck out the three batters he faced. D. Wenger, Llewellyn and Dawson. Raines has won four games and lost three.

John Keister obtained two of the Sluggers' six hits while Tucker Cain rapped a two-bagger. Harold Hudson smacked a double and two singles and Ronnie Cagle garnered a pair of base knocks for the losers.

Barrelville had beaten Grantsville in the first two games of their series by scores of 9-2 and 13-2.

Hyndman Gets 8 In 4th
Manager Bob Bryant's Hyndman Merchants scored eight runs in the fourth inning in routing Mt. Savage.

During the riotous 4th the Pennsylvanians grouped three passes with an error, sacrifice fly five singles and a two-bagger. Ralph Dickel, starting pitcher, was battered out and Bob Dickel, Folk, Arnone and Kline paraded to the rubber before the Merchants were stopped.

Clay Leydig opened the rally with a double, Bob See, Jim Leydig and Bob Bryant singled. Pete Deremer, Gene Stair and Lou Hite drew passes, Bob Cook got a life on an error and Cliff Clites batted in a run with a sacrifice fly during the wild inning. The score was 3-3 before Hyndman began teeing off.

Clay Leydig led the assault with four hits in five trips. Manager Bryant pounded a double and single, Cliff Clites smacked a pair of two-baggers and Bob "Ab" See banged a double and single for the Merchants. Jim Leydig, who was relieved by Glenn Deremer in the 8th, registered his fourth win against no defeats this season. Ralph Dickel's record is 3-4.

Mt. Savage's 13 hits were all singles. Lennox and Arnone had three each and Often and Kline had a pair apiece.

Flintstone Ends Famine
Blanked for eight innings, Flintstone scored six runs in the ninth inning to edge Wellersburg, 6-5, and break a 14-game losing streak. It was the Farmers' first victory since May 17 when they beat Wellersburg by the score of 2-0.

Eddie Weaver's two-base belt batted in the tying and winning runs to climax the final frame rally. The explosion was marked by walks to Joe Deremer and Lewis Williams, singles by Dwight Morris and Jim Fletcher, doubles by Walter Hilgates and Weaver and an error.

Lefty Bill Hook, who had lost a 4-3 decision to Mt. Savage on July 4 in his initial start for the Farmers, went the distance yesterday to notch his initial victory. He gave up nine hits, fanned one and issued three passes. Ronnie Neubeiser, who supplanted Russ Jones during the 9th inning uprisings, was charged with the loss. Jones fanned six and walked four while Neubeiser gave up two passes.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A good brushing may be the solution to the problem of brittle and lusterless hair.

Give Your Hair Polish

Has your hair lost its sheen and look of beauty? How often women lament that their hair looks terrible during the periods when it's exposed to the elements! That means gentle breezes and strong sun rays of summer when many people discard hats.

Warmer weather means many more showers and swims which all help to rob the hair of its natural oils. Such exposure is apt to result in dryness, thus ruining the appearance of the best dressed girl. Excessive coloring can also damage the hair.

Some women think a new permanent will solve all their troubles. But, when a hair is in bad shape, this is one time when a permanent should be skipped. A poor permanent can make the hair look more lifeless and drab.

A well-groomed gleaming head of hair is so noticeable when it is more out in the open during these carefree months of summer. It should speak of good care and health. Women don't brush the hair as much today as they should. Many use various

CHARLES HITCHINS SR.

FROSTBURG — Charles Hitchins Sr., 79, died Saturday at the home of his son, Stanley Hitchins, Loarstown, with whom he resided.

A son of the late John and Mary Ann (Stevens) Hitchins, he was born in Miller, near Midland and resided in Carlos for many years.

Surviving are three other sons, William Hitchins, Midlothian; Charles Hitchins, Carlos, and Harry Hitchins, Woodland; five daughters, Mrs. John Stevenson, Cumberland; Mrs. Perry Keister, Oakhill, Fla.; Mrs. James Athey, Cumberland; Mrs. Leonard Kenney and Mrs. George Duncan, both of Frostburg; two brothers, Harry and John Hitchins, both of Carlos; 34 grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home where friends will be received from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Services will be conducted today at 3:30 p. m. at the funeral home by Rev. Thomas W. Beckett. Interment will be in Frostburg Memorial Park.

Palbearers will be Quentin Spiker, James Spear, Matthew Willets, Robert Darr, Robert Hendershot and Harold Hoadley.

JACKSON SERVICES

FROSTBURG — Services for Mrs. Eleanor Jackson, 60, of 111 Park Avenue, who died Friday in Miners Hospital, will be conducted today at 2 p. m. at the residence, with the Rev. George T. C. Bell officiating. Interment will be in Frostburg Memorial Park.

Palbearers will be Michael Cole, Clarence Smith, Raymond Jackson, Herbert Cole, Ernest Cole and James Perkins.

Damage Action Filed By Couple

A Barton couple has docketed suit in Circuit Court through their attorney, Milton Gerson, for damages totalling $35,000 as the result of a car-truck crash February 7 at 3:45 p. m. on Douglas Avenue in Lonaconing.

Esther Jane Kyle is asking $25,000 damages for severe injuries she claims she suffered when she was thrown against windshield of her husband's station wagon when it was struck by a truck driven by David Lee Weir, of Lonaconing. The truck is owned by David W. Weir. They are the defendants in the two suits.

Mrs. Kyle's husband, Harrison Kyle, is asking $10,000 damages from the Weirs for medical and hospital expenses and the loss of the services of his wife in the crash. The declaration states that Mrs. Kyle was badly injured about the head and body and suffered from shock. She is still confined to her home and is unable to pursue her normal household duties, it was added.

chemicals on their locks, too. We told you recently how easily it can be improved practically overnight with brushing. Let's emphasize again how important a daily brushing is with a natural bristle hairbrush. Not only does this cleanse the hair but it also gives it a good stretch which helps keep it lively and polished.

The tiny uneven hairs found only in natural bristles interlock with the hair. The natural oils are restored by a good brushing and the scalp is stimulated. This in turn makes the hair grow and groom more beautifully.

Surviving are three other sons, William Hitchins, Midlothian; Charles Hitchins, Carlos, and Harry Hitchins, Woodland; five daughters, Mrs. John Stevenson, Cumberland; Mrs. Perry Keister, Oakhill, Fla.; Mrs. James Athey, Cumberland; Mrs. Leonard Kenney and Mrs. George Duncan, both of Frostburg; two brothers, Harry and John Hitchins, both of Carlos; 34 grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home where friends will be received from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Services will be conducted today at 3:30 p. m. at the funeral home by Rev. Thomas W. Beckett. Interment will be in Frostburg Memorial Park.

Pallbearers will be Quentin Spiker, James Spear, Matthew Willets, Robert Darr, Robert Hendershot and Harold Hoadley.

JACKSON SERVICES

FROSTBURG — Services for Mrs. Eleanor Jackson, 60, of 111 Park Avenue, who died Friday in Miners Hospital, will be conducted today at 2 p. m. at the residence, with the Rev. George T. C. Bell officiating. Interment will be in Frostburg Memorial Park.

Pallbearers will be Michael Cole, Clarence Smith, Raymond Jackson, Herbert Cole, Ernest Cole and James Perkins.

Damage Action
Filed By Couple

A Barton couple has docketed suit in Circuit Court through their attorney, Milton Gerson, for damages totalling $35,000 as the result of a car-truck crash February 7 at 3:45 p. m. on Douglas Avenue in Lonaconing.

Esther Jane Kyle is asking $25,000 damages for severe injuries she claims she suffered when she was thrown against windshield of her husband's station wagon when it was struck by a truck driven by David Lee Weir, of Lonaconing. The truck is owned by David W. Weir. They are the defendants in the two suits.

Mrs. Kyle's husband, Harrison Kyle, is asking $10,000 damages from the Weirs for medical and hospital expenses and the loss of the services of his wife in the crash. The declaration states that Mrs. Kyle was badly injured about the head and body and suffered from shock. She is still confined to her home and is unable to pursue her normal household duties, it was added.

chemicals on their locks, too. We told you recently how easily it can be improved practically overnight with brushing. Let's emphasize again how important a daily brushing is with a natural bristle hairbrush. Not only does this cleanse the hair but it also gives it a good stretch which helps keep it lively and polished. The tiny uneven hairs found only in natural bristles interlock with the hair. The natural oils are restored by a good brushing and the scalp is stimulated. This in turn makes the hair grow and groom more beautifully.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
AKJ1074♥A864♦K753

The bidding has proceeded:
1 club
1 club
1 club
1 club

What do you bid?

A.—This hand has splendid offensive possibilities and may well produce a game in the best suit, though partner may have a below average hand. The best way to portray this strength is by a take-out double. A mere one spade overall will not do justice to your holding and partner may fail to act with just enough values for your purposes.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
AK10753♥AJ1072♦A43

The bidding has proceeded:
1 spade
1 spade
1 spade
1 spade

What do you bid now?

A.—Despite partner's announcement of a mediocre holding we would be inclined to insist upon a game contract if partner has a preference for one of the major suits there should be a good chance, because of the highly favorable distribution. The suggested bid, therefore is three hearts. A bid of only two hearts will very likely be passed by partner.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
AKQ865♥J9J43♠AQ8

The bidding has proceeded:
1 club
1 club
1 club
1 club

What do you bid now?

A.—Despite your lack of a heart stopper, a bid of three no trump is recommended. There is nothing to be gained by rebidding spades.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
AQ84♥J6♦KJ943♠Q85

The bidding has proceeded:
1 club
1 club
1 club
1 club

What action do you take?

A.—Two spades. Partner has continued the bidding at a time when he could conveniently pass. His hand therefore must have certain merit. You have your values where they fit best and you should give partner one more chance. He will realize that you have only three spades because at your first opportunity you preferred clubs to spades.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
AT73♥KJ1063J10♠KQ8

The bidding has proceeded:
1 club
1 club
1 club
1 club

What action do you take?

A.—A strength-showing temporizing bid is in order. While there is no doubt that you have a game, the hand may have greater potentialities, for partner's exact strength has not yet been determined. A jump in hearts is not suitable because the suit itself has not the proper texture. Spades should not be supported vigorously with three trumps. Lack of a diamond stopper bars a jump in no trump. So, by the process of elimination, we choose three clubs, intending to take further action on the next round.

Q. 6—Both sides vulnerable and as South you hold:
A92♥J542♠AK972♠K10

The bidding has proceeded:
1 club
1 club
1 club
1 club

What action do you take?

A.—The showing of even a six card major suit should be subordinated to the more important choice of showing that you have a good hand. The proper rebid is therefore three hearts. A mere rebid of two spades, while it would describe the texture of your spade suit, would announce that you had opened on only moderate strength, which is not an accurate description, now that partner has responded with hearts.

Britain's crown colony of Hong Kong, carrying on in the shadow of Red China, is a little larger than New York City in area.

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South
1 spade 2 hearts Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Four hearts. Partner's vulnerable overall should be approximately six tricks and your hand rates to produce at least four. A single raise therefore would not be adequate.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
AJ2♥Q63♦Q753♠KJ52

The bidding has proceeded:
1 spade
1 spade
1 spade
1 spade

What action do you take?

A.—Partner has described a hand containing six spades and only four hearts. This is clear from the fact that he made a jump rebid in his first suit before showing the other major. The partnership is known therefore, to possess eight spades as against only seven hearts and the proper call is four spades.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
AK7542♥AQJ♦32♠64

The bidding has proceeded:
1 spade
1 spade
1 spade
1 spade

What action do you take?

A.—The showing of even a six card major suit should be subordinated to the more important choice of showing that you have a good hand. The proper rebid is therefore three hearts. A mere rebid of two spades, while it would describe the texture of your spade suit, would announce that you had opened on only moderate strength, which is not an accurate description, now that partner has responded with hearts.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Charles A. Jewell, who left us 5 years ago today, July 12, 1953.

The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of one who once sat there
Beyond the sunset he has gone,
Still memories linger on
Gone but not forgotten,
Wife and Family.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Charles A. Jewell, who left us 5 years ago today, July 12, 1953.
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Reminds the love, the voice, the smile,
Of one who once sat there.
Beyond the sunset he has gone,
Still memories linger on.
Gone but not forgotten,
Wife and Family.

City Playlots Queen Contest Friday Night

Talent Show
Reset Tonight

The Intra-City Queen contest sponsored by the Cumberland Recreation Department will be held on Friday at 8 p. m. at the Constitution Park pool.

During the past few days play leaders of the 16 playgrounds have been holding individual contests to select a representative for the Friday evening event.

Others will be chosen this week. Among those who will vie for the top honor this year are Linda Saville, Post Playground; Emma Jean Simpson, East Side; Patty Dreyer, Centre Street; and Patricia Rhodes of Lamont Street.

Gene Mason, rec director, will present a trophy to the winning contestant and also trophies to the two runners-up. Russ Reynolds will be master of ceremonies of the entertainment program.

Three judges will be selected to choose the finalists.

This week members of North End and Centre Street playlots will begin swimming classes at 10 a. m. and an hour later members of Gephart and Columbia Street will begin classes.

The sessions usually run daily for about 10 days or two weeks and instructions are given to beginners, intermediates and advanced through cooperation with the Allegany County Red Cross chapter.

Over 3,000 youngsters of Cumberland are now signed up at the various playgrounds throughout the city. Last year the overall registration went over the 3,200 mark.

This evening the intra-city talent show will begin at 8 o'clock in the amphitheatre of the park. Rainy weather on Friday night caused the show to be postponed until this evening.

Fourth Degree KC Committee Heads Named

James F. Quinn, faithful navigator of Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, has announced his committee chairman for the coming year.

Edward Lyons and James E. Van will be co-chairmen of the annual family picnic which will be held at Maryland on August 10. Other committee chairmen are Andrew Saliga, grounds; Patrick Hopkins, registration and prizes; Bernard McGreevy, games; Leo Powers, refreshments and kitchen; and Larry Geiger, contests.

Norman Fearnow was named Catholic action chairman and will be assisted by Patrick Hopkins, Joseph Webb, Donald Stillwagon, Maxwell Mathias, Edward Conway and Robert Dawson. Included in this activity is the annual retreat to Manresa-on-Severn which this year will be held the weekend of August 25.

John W. Kreidler will head the committee for the Old Defenders Day Celebration which follows the installation of officers September 5.

A membership drive is now under way in Cumberland, Frostburg, Mt. Savage, Oakland, Piedmont and Martinsburg. Arthur F. Young, past faithful navigator, heads this committee and will be assisted by Ronald J. Atkinson of Frostburg Council, Edward Malloy, Mt. Savage, Robert Dawson, Piedmont, and Carmen J. Ferro, Martinsburg.

John O'Rourke heads the spelling contest held in the spring for parochial school children. Edward Neus heads the elocution contest committee. This project was formulated by Carl Firlie, district deputy.

Other committee chairmen are James Coyle and James Brailer, bowling; George W. Lovenstein, entertainment; Raymond Law, parish and sick committee; Joseph Webb, past faithful navigator, budget.

James Condon, past faithful navigator, and Frank Werner, lapsed; Donald J. Murray, past faithful navigator, auditing, and Patrick Hopkins, patrons.

Patrick Cregan is honorary chief of the marshals in the color guard. Vincent Leasure is chief with the following assistants, John Rorick, John J. Loibel, Carmen Ferro, James Brannon, Francis Peretti, Francis Cosgrove and James Condon. The assembly publicity is being handled by Richard Mastriano.

The next meeting of the assembly will be held August 12 at Frostburg.

Gamble Attends Choir School

Frank E. Gamble, supervisor of music education in the Allegany County public schools, left yesterday to attend a week-long Choir School at Chambersburg, Pa.

The choir school, sponsored by the Lutheran Church, is primarily for choir directors to give them a better understanding of the Lutheran liturgy. Mr. Gamble is organist and choir director at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Farm Queen Crowned

Marlene Clark, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Clark, Baltimore Pike, is crowned Allegany County Farm Queen by Miss Nancy Vandervort, the 1957 queen, after Miss Clark was selected at the Allegany County Farm Bureau picnic Saturday night at Union Grove. Miss Clark also won a talent find contest at the picnic. She will represent this county in the state contest at Timonium.

Former Cumberland Man Runs Unusual Industry

A former local man, Harry W. Kompanek, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kompanek, 511 Pearre Avenue, is making a name for himself on the West Coast because of something called piezoelectric polycrystal.

This is a ceramic-like substance Kompanek is turning out in his own laboratory under the name of "Michelite" in Santa Barbara, Calif.

Michelite, he explains, is actually a modern-day ceramic development of the monocrystal discovered by Marie Curie in the last century, using Rochelle salt. Phonograph needles were made with it, as well as numerous other objects. (Piezoelectricity involves current produced or controlled by pressure in crystalline substances, such as quartz.)

Mr. Kompanek, a 34-year-old chemical engineer, heads the firm of Universal Dynamics Corp., and operates a plant and laboratory at 321 State Street in Santa Barbara.

His development of the piezoelectric polycrystal has many uses, he says, such as with sonar, with ultrasonic drilling and cleaning, with accelerometers, in seismic operations, or as impact fuses for missiles.

A former paper carrier for Cumberland papers and a graduate of Allegany High School in the class of 1941, Harry Kompanek is a son of a well known Czechoslovakian-born couple. His father, now retired, was a shop foreman for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company here for many years. Harry graduated from Iowa State College as a chemical engineer. He entered the Navy and took graduate work there in advanced mathematics and physics at the University of Pennsylvania. He was commissioned in the Navy at Notre Dame as an engineering officer and served as a lieutenant on a destroyer during World War II.

After the war, he was employed at the Underwater Sound Laboratory at Orlando, Fla., for four years. While there he designed, calibrated and evaluated the Navy's sonar equipment. During the Korean war he was recalled to active duty and served in the acoustics field in the Office of Naval Research in Washington. He was project officer on numerous Navy programs, dealing with the difficult problem of submarine detection.

For two years he was stationed in London as an assistant naval attaché for research with the Office of Naval Intelligence. As a liaison officer in electronics and acoustics he visited laboratories and universities of the free world, studying their work and their projects.

In 1953, Mr. Kompanek joined the Cleveland Research Center at Cleveland, Ohio. For four years there he was director of contracts, and it was there he became interested in the field of piezoelectric materials.

Something over a year ago Mr. Kompanek and his wife, the former Mary David, a former stewardess with Western Air Lines, moved to California. Kompanek became a staff engineer at Aero-Physics Development Corp. in Santa Barbara, but in February of this year resigned to form the company he now heads.

His company is producing tubes and squares and odd shapes of custom-made Michelite for clients all across the country. No idle dreamer, Kompanek is looking to the future. He believes that this material will eventually find its way into the home. The tasks of the homemaker can be revolutionized, he claims: "Imagine having one simple little generator in the kitchen, with all the operations such as cooking, dish washing and refrigeration, powered by it."

County Agent Gives Advice On Lawn Care

This can be a trying month for lawns, especially those which have just been established.

Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent, says two mistakes homeowners often make in regard to lawn care are shallow watering and cutting the grass too short.

If it is necessary to water at all, the lawn should be given an occasional good soaking, equivalent to one inch of gentle rainfall. This stimulates a better and deeper root system and gives the good grasses more chance for the moisture than weeds will get.

During the dry weather the grass should be allowed to grow fairly high. The mower should be adjusted so that the grass will be two inches tall after cutting. The higher cut will help shade the ground and help to keep the soil cool and preserve what moisture there is. A close cut dries out the surface of the ground quickly with resulting damage to the roots. Then the lawn will begin to brown.

To check on the amount of water you are giving the lawn place an empty can near the sprinkler. A coffee can will do. Avoid heavy watering if your lawn does not have good drainage. Watch out for the places where water collects instead of running off or being absorbed.

Senator Butler Seeks Work For Shipyards

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md) thinks private shipyards should get at least half of the repair work to be done on 43 Navy ships scheduled for transfer to friendly countries.

Sen. Butler wants President Eisenhower to intervene, with a direct order overruling what the senator called "the deep-seated bureaucracy" of the Navy.

In a letter to the President, Butler said the Navy plans to have all the repair work done in government yards "with the flimsy excuse that such repair is dictated by technical and security reasons."

Giving half the work to civilian yards, he said, would instead "bolster the economic health of a recession-hit industry and at the same time conform to your announced intention to reduce government competition with private, tax-paying businesses."

Three Persons Hospitalized After Crash

Three persons, injured in an automobile crash yesterday afternoon, were admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital. Two others were treated and released.

Admitted to the hospital were Mrs. Nannie Truax, 48, of Breezewood, who sustained lacerations and contusions; Edward L. Truax, 13, her son, who suffered similar injuries; and Earl Myles, 18, of Star Route, Breezewood, who was admitted for observation.

Their conditions are listed as "good." Hospital attaches said Leona Myles, 21, and Michael Myles, 17 months, were treated and released.

Full details of the accident were not available last night, although the crash was reported to have occurred in the Breezewood area when the car was forced off the highway by another car.

State Police said the accident occurred about 2 p. m. between Bedford and the Fulton County line.

Grapes Should Be Sprayed

Now is the time to be spraying grape crops in order to combat black rot, berry moth, Japanese beetle or mildew.

Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent, suggests the berries be sprayed when they are the size of a pea and before they touch.

Bordeaux mixture is the standard fungicide for control of grape diseases. Mr. Steger said homemade Bordeaux is made by combining copper sulfate (blue stone) and hydrated spray lime in water.

To make five gallons of spray, use six ounces or one-half cup granular copper sulfate (one cup powdered or instant grade) and one and one-half cups of spray lime.

The bluestone should be dissolved in one-half the total volume of water before the spray lime is added. Commercially prepared Bordeaux mixture powder should be used according to the recommendation of the manufacturer.

'Good Old Days' Had Postal Problems

Many people are raising at least a mild protest to the impending increases in postal rates, which become effective August 1, when the price of mailing a first-class letter goes to four cents along with a number of other boosts.

Critics often yearn for the so-called "good old days," but that could hardly be true insofar as the postal service is concerned. In colonial America, the system was simple and most unsatisfactory. If a person wished to write a friend in the New World, he would go to a tavern or coffee house on the dockside of the nearest port and deposit his letter in a pouch placed there for the purpose.

Eventually, a ship would depart and, with a little luck, would arrive at its destination

Oldtown Joins Two-County Fire Group

Insurance Bid
Is Accepted

Oldtown Volunteer Fire Company, which was organized several months ago, has been accepted into the membership of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association.

A letter of application was read at the monthly meeting of the association held yesterday in Oakland and the membership welcomed the new company into the two-county group, which now has 31 companies on its roster, 21 in Allegany County and eight in Garrett County.

The 43-member unit meets on the first and third Mondays each month at the Oldtown Sportsmen's Club. Officials of the organization are seeking land on which to construct a fire hall.

In reporting fires, residents of the area should call PA 2-1195, Chief Hose said.

In other business yesterday, a report of the hospital fund of the Ladies Auxiliary Unit of Maryland shows that 16 members of the two-county association received benefits in the past year.

Bid Accepted
Homer Ambrose of McCoolle reported that the insurance bid of the Gortner Insurance Agency of Oakland had been accepted.

The policy covers firemen in the performance of duties as volunteers. At present, 59 pieces of fire-fighting equipment are covered by the insurance.

A motion was made and carried that the association secretary send to the state secretary an up-to-date list of deceased firemen for the annual state memorial service held each June.

Invocation at the meeting was by Felix Foote, of Lonaconing, chaplain. A lunch was served by the host company.

Gephart Playlot Lists Program, Names Queens

The week's activities at Gephart Playlot were announced last night by Judy Snyder, playlot leader, who said that Donna Rice was selected queen to compete in the intra-city contest Friday night at Constitution Park.

Chosen teen-queen was Carol Zucker, while Jackie Zucker was selected as tiny tot queen. Handicraft will be featured today, Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

The twirling club meets at 7 p. m. today. This morning the children will go to the park pool and get their first lesson in swimming. A teen-age meet will be held tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

This will be followed by a movie. Refreshments will be available. At 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, a pet show will be held and on Thursday night at 7:30 the playlot children will play three-man basketball with youngsters of West Side.

An association meeting will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday.

Trend Toward Reading On Upswing Here

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Information, inspiration and recreation at a small cost are the rewards of reading books, according to Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian at the Cumberland Free Public Library, who says that the trend toward reading is on the upswing.

And she has annual circulation statistics to back up her belief. With the coming of television to Cumberland several years ago, circulation dropped off, she said, but it has since leveled off and is now increasing year by year.

The appearance of Davy Crockett on the television screen stimulated the circulation of books based on the life of the legendary hero of Tennessee. The library had about 10 books on hand and an additional 35 had to be purchased for youngsters who demanded them.

When the local library was founded March 1, 1924, there were 1,650 books on the shelves. Today the library has about 60,000 books. Last year's circulation was about 233,000, Miss Walsh said.

Discovery In Depression

She added that it was during the depression years of the early '30s that people of all walks of life and all ages began to learn that it is fun to read. Some children would rather read than play baseball, she said, and some are well-read before they enter the first grade in school.

Most readers develop a desire for reading in about the fourth grade and from then on they keep the local library staff busy. Some of the best readers, she said, are high school boys who seem to have an interest in science.

However the girls are continually looking for books on sewing and cooking, as well as vocational guidance for future jobs.

More books are sought during the winter months, and a slowdown period occurs in the summer when reference work by school children, high school students and college students is not as predominant.

College students write to the library in advance of the Christmas or Easter recess and request that certain books be on hand for them. They are often obtained from the State Division Library Extension in Baltimore which provides free service.

Often, books are acquired from the Library of Congress, Johns Hopkins University, and the Enoch Pratt Library of Baltimore.

Calling Tarzan

About three years ago, Miss Walsh received a rather unusual request. Johns Hopkins University Library was looking for Tarzan books and went to the State Extension Library for help.

Personnel of that library said that Cumberland more than likely would have a number of books on the jungle hero. Miss Walsh filled the order.

In September of 1956 a re-registration program was started at the local library. Today, thousands of residents are going to the library for all sorts of reading material—from science fiction to do-it-yourself literature.

Health Clinics Set This Week

A schedule of child health clinics this week has been announced by the Allegany County Health Department:

Today, City Hall at 9:30 a. m.; tomorrow, Penn Avenue at 9:30 a. m.; Thursday, Eckhart, at 1 p. m. and Friday, Ellerslie, at 9:30 a. m.

A prenatal clinic will be held on Wednesday at City Hall from 9 a. m. until noon. A chest clinic is planned at City Hall on Friday from 9 a. m. until noon.

A seizure clinic will be held on Wednesday at City Hall from 9 a. m. until 3 p. m. Every Wednesday all purpose clinics are held at City Hall beginning at 9 a. m.

Firemen Will Hold Carnival At Fairgo

Volunteer firemen of Cresap-town are sponsoring a carnival this week at Fairgo.

Francis Nicholas, chairman, said the Penn Premier Shows will provide rides, shows and concessions each evening beginning at 7 o'clock.

Workers Agree On Wage Boost At Kelly Plant

Approximately 1,600
Will Get Increase

Members of Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America, yesterday unanimously approved a general wage increase of eight cents an hour for all hourly rated employees of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company plant here.

Negotiations between the company and Local 26 were brought to a successful completion Friday afternoon. A general membership meeting for ratification or rejection of the agreement was scheduled yesterday by A. E. Johnson, president of the Local.

A spokesman for the union said the general meeting was well attended. There was no dissenting vote, and the members were "pretty well pleased" with the agreement, he said.

The wage boost is effective July 7 and will affect about 1,600 Kelly employees. At the same time they agreed that the pension and insurance agreement may be reopened along with the basic labor agreement next spring.

The agreement reached here follows an industry pattern set two weeks ago when Goodyear and Goodrich locals settled wage issues for an eight-cent-an-hour increase after deferring discussions on pensions and insurance issues.

Negotiating for the union were William Sheetz, William O'Neil, Richard Dye, George Simmons and Mr. Johnson who presented a report at yesterday's ratification meeting.

PSC Probe Continues In W. Va.

Bean Urges Study
Of Hopemont

CHARLESTON (AP) — The Legislature's interim committee will hold another session Monday in its investigation of public utility rates and their regulation by the Public Service Commission.

The utility study will take up the first day of a two-day meeting of the committee, actually two groups which function together. They are the Joint Committee on Government and Finance and the Commission on Interstate Cooperation.

The group has announced that it will hear Monday the views of representatives of municipalities, county courts and public groups on the subject of the PSC and utility rates. Members of the PSC and utility representatives have appeared before the committee at previous sessions.

On the program the second day will be discussion of the state's transportation privilege tax. Representatives of transportation concerns and the Tax Department have been invited.

Senate President Ralph J. Bean (D-Hardy), co-chairman of the committee, has indicated he may bring up two other matters. One is the controversy surrounding veteran State Trooper E. D. Bazzie, who was transferred twice in four months and demoted from sergeant to trooper.

Bean also has said the committee should look into what he described as reports of improper activities, including misuse of state property, at Hopemont Sanitarium.

SRC Discloses Traffic On Route 36 Up

Figures Vary For
First Five Months

Traffic on State Route 36 in the Lonaconing area today is running 37.5 per cent ahead of its volume of ten years ago, according to figures compiled by the State Roads Commission.

Another count showed that U. S. Route 40 volume at Huyett's, just west of Hagerstown, is 72.2 per cent more traveled than it was in 1948.

Traffic volume figures for the first five months of this year released by the SRC indicate that traffic on some Maryland roads is 16 per cent heavier than it was a year ago while at other points it has decreased as much as 21 per cent.

The State Roads Commission announced over the weekend that traffic volume on the Potomac River toll bridge was 16.6 per cent greater during the first five months of 1958 than during the same period last year.

The Washington National Pike, U. S. Route 240, between Frederick and Washington, was up 2.7 per cent for the first five months compared to 1957. The same is true of U. S. Route 13 between Salisbury and the Delaware line.

Other increases noted were 2.5 per cent for the York Road at Cockeysville, 4.7 per cent for U. S. Route 50 west of Ocean City, 4 per cent for State Route 5 east of Waldorf, 7.2 per cent for the Baltimore - Washington Expressway and 1.4 per cent for the Har-tisburg Expressway.

Decreases in traffic have been noted at a number of locations ranging from 1.7 per cent on U. S. Route 50 north of Easton to 21.2 per cent on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

In addition to weather and economic conditions, a part of the decrease in traffic on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge and the Blue Star Memorial Highway can be traced to the diversion of some north-south traffic to the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel.

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge, when compared to the Sandy Point-Matapeake Ferry System, shows a 313.7 per cent increase over the 10-year period.

Committees Appointed By Firemen

Committees for the coming year were announced yesterday by Francis Fatkin of Clarysville, president of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association which met in Oakland.

Heading the insurance committee will be Francis Philpot, of Shaft, who will be assisted by Homer Ambrose, McCoolle; Glen O'Brien, Deer Park; Charles Crawford, Bowling Green, and Charles Pattison, Bloomington.

James Loar of LaVale is chairman of the bulletin and will be assisted by George F. Comp Jr. of Deer Park, and David E. Kirk, Bowling Green.

In charge of the carnival clearance committee is Harry C. Winters of Corriganville. The legislative committee is under the chairmanship of Felix Foote of Lonaconing and John Prichard, Grantsville. They will be assisted by Alvin Rankin, Frostburg; Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Walters.

Cromwell Zembower of LaVale, heads the fire prevention committee. His committee includes John Long, District 16; David Wilson, Bedford Road; Clyde Vansickel, Friendsville; and Mr. Prichard.

Auditing will be headed by Joseph Wenrich of Cresaptown, assisted by James Green, Westernport, and P. R. Gilbert, Gorman.

Topics and statistical committee will be headed by Charles Pattison, Bloomington; David Powell, Frostburg; Robert Dickle, Mt. Savage, Harry DeHaven, Baltimore Pike, and Hobert Bowser of Accident.

Convention liaison, Wilburg Johnson, Barton, chairman, assisted by Lamar Minnich, Bowmans Addition, and Irvin Green of Kitzmiller.

Speakers bureau, George F. Comp Jr., chairman; William A. Wilson, Midland; Frank Biser, Oakland; Chester Shimer, Luke, and Mr. Zembower.

Memorial service committee, Felix Foote; firemen's training, Cromwell Zembower, chairman, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Comp.

Civil defense committee will be headed by Mr. Ambrose, Mr. Johnson and James Winfield, of Clarysville. The firemen-of-the-year committee is headed by Mr. Kirk, who will be assisted by Mr. Prichard and William M. Hawkins of Ellerslie.

Central alarm committee is headed by James Loar, assisted by Paul Haberlein, Frostburg, Mr. DeHaven, Elmer Van Pelt, Tri-Towns, and Lawrence Smith, Flintstone.

Meeting Thursday

The Police and Firemen's Welfare Association will meet on Thursday at 8 p. m. at Shaw's Cafe, Oldtown Road.

City Playlots Queen Contest Friday Night

Talent Show
Reset Tonight

The Intra-City Queen contest sponsored by the Cumberland Recreation Department will be held on Friday at 8 p. m. at the Constitution Park pool.

During the past few days play leaders of the 16 playgrounds have been holding individual contests to select a representative for the Friday evening event.

Others will be chosen this week. Among those who will vie for the top honor this year are Linda Saville, Post Playground; Emma Jean Simpson, East Side; Patty Dreyer, Centre Street; and Patricia Rhodes of Lamont Street.

Gene Mason, rec director, will present a trophy to the winning contestant and also trophies to the two runners-up. Russ Reynolds will be master of ceremonies of the entertainment program.

Three judges will be selected to choose the finalists.

This week members of North End and Centre Street playlots will begin swimming classes at 10 a. m. and an hour later members of Gephart and Columbia Street will begin classes.

The sessions usually run daily for about 10 days or two weeks and instructions are given to beginners, intermediates and advanced through cooperation with the Allegheny County Red Cross chapter.

Over 3,000 youngsters of Cumberland are now signed up at the various playgrounds throughout the city. Last year the overall registration went over the 3,200 mark.

This evening the intra-city talent show will begin at 8 o'clock in the amphitheatre of the park. Rainy weather on Friday night caused the show to be postponed until this evening.

Fourth Degree KC Committee Heads Named

James F. Quinn, faithful navigator of Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, has announced his committee chairman for the coming year.

Edward Lyons and James E. Van will be co-chairmen of the annual family picnic which will be held at Maryland on August 10. Other committee chairmen are Andrew Saliga, grounds; Patrick Hopkins, registration and prizes; Bernard McGreevy, games; Leo Powers, refreshments and kitchen; and Larry Geiger, contests.

Norman Fearnow was named Catholic action chairman and will be assisted by Patrick Hopkins, Joseph Webb, Donald Stillwagon, Maxwell Mathias, Edward Conway and Robert Dawson. Included in this activity is the annual retreat to Manresa-on-Severn which this year will be held the weekend of August 25.

John W. Kreidler will head the committee for the Old Defenders Day Celebration which follows the installation of officers September 5.

A membership drive is now under way in Cumberland, Frostburg, Mt. Savage, Oakland, Piedmont and Martinsburg. Arthur P. Young, past faithful navigator, heads this committee and will be assisted by Ronald J. Atkinson of Frostburg Council, Edward Malloy, Mt. Savage, Robert Dawson, Piedmont, and Carmen J. Ferro, Martinsburg.

John O'Rourke heads the spelling contest held in the spring for parochial school children. Edward Neus heads the elocution contest committee. This project was formulated by Carl Firle, district deputy.

Other committee chairmen are James Coyle and James Brailer, bowling; George W. Lovenstein, entertainment; Raymond Law, parish and sick committee; Joseph Webb, past faithful navigator, budget.

James Condon, past faithful navigator, and Frank Werner, lapstation; Donald J. Murray, past faithful navigator, auditing, and Patrick Hopkins, patrons.

Patrick Creegan is honorary chief of the marshals in the color guard. Vincent Leasure is chief with the following assistants, John Rorick, John J. Loibel, Carmen Ferro, James Brannon, Francis Peretti, Francis Cosgrove and James Condon. The assembly publicity is being handled by Richard Mastrino.

The next meeting of the assembly will be held August 12 at Frostburg.

Gamble Attends Choir School

Frank E. Gamble, supervisor of music education in the Allegheny County public schools, left yesterday to attend a week-long Choir School at Chambersburg, Pa.

The choir school, sponsored by the Lutheran Church, is primarily for choir directors to give them a better understanding of the Lutheran liturgy. Mr. Gamble is organizer and choir director at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Farm Queen Crowned

Marlene Clark, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Clark, Baltimore Pike, is crowned Allegheny County Farm Queen by Miss Nancy Vandervort, the 1957 queen, after Miss Clark was selected at the Allegheny County Farm Bureau picnic Saturday night at Union Grove. Miss Clark also won a talent find contest at the picnic. She will represent this county in the state contest at Timonium.

Former Cumberland Man Runs Unusual Industry

A former local man, Harry W. Kompanek, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kompanek, 511 Pearre Avenue, is making a name for himself on the West Coast because of something called piezoelectric polycrystal.

This is a ceramic-like substance Kompanek is turning out in his own laboratory under the name of "Michelite" in Santa Barbara, Calif.

Michelite, he explains, is actually a modern-day ceramic development of the monocrystal discovered by Marie Curie in the last century, using Rochelle salt. Phonograph needles were made with it, as well as numerous other objects. (Piezoelectricity involves current produced or controlled by pressure in crystalline substances, such as quartz.)

Mr. Kompanek, a 24-year-old chemical engineer, heads the firm of Universal Dynamics Corp., and operates a plant and laboratory at 321 State Street in Santa Barbara.

His development of the piezoelectric polycrystal has many uses, he says, such as with sonar, with ultrasonic drilling and cleaning, with accelerometers, in seismic operations, or as impact fuses for missiles.

A former paper carrier for Cumberland papers and a graduate of Allegheny High School in the class of 1941, Harry Kompanek is a son of a well known Czechoslovakian-born couple. His father, now retired, was a shop foreman for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company here for many years. Harry graduated from Iowa State College as a chemical engineer. He entered the Navy and took graduate work there in advanced mathematics and physics at the University of Pennsylvania. He was commissioned in the Navy at Notre Dame as an engineering officer and served as a lieutenant on a destroyer during World War II.

After the war, he was employed at the Underwater Sound Laboratory at Orlando, Fla., for four years. While there he designed, calibrated and evaluated the Navy's sonar equipment. During the Korean war he was recalled to active duty and served in the acoustics field in the Office of Naval Research in Washington. He was project officer on numerous Navy programs, dealing with the difficult problem of submarine detection.

For two years he was stationed in London as an assistant naval attaché for research with the Office of Naval Intelligence. As a liaison officer in electronics and acoustics he visited laboratories and universities of the free world, studying their work and their projects.

In 1953, Mr. Kompanek joined the Cleveland Research Center at Cleveland, Ohio. For four years there he was director of contracts, and it was there he became interested in the field of piezoelectric materials.

Something over a year ago Mr. Kompanek and his wife, the former Mary David, a former stewardess with Western Air Lines, moved to California. Kompanek became a staff engineer at Aero-Physics Development Corp. in Santa Barbara, but in February of this year resigned to form the company he now heads.

His company is producing tubes and squares and odd shapes of custom-made Michelite for clients all across the country. No idle dreamer, Kompanek is looking to the future. He believes that this material will eventually find its way into the home. The tasks of the home-maker can be revolutionized, he claims: "Imagine having one simple little generator in the kitchen, with all the operations such as cooking, dish washing and refrigeration, powered by it."

This can be a trying month for lawns, especially those which have just been established. Joseph M. Steger, Allegheny County farm agent, says two mistakes homeowners often make in regard to lawn care are shallow watering and cutting the grass too short.

If it is necessary to water at all, the lawn should be given an occasional good soaking, equivalent to one inch of gentle rainfall. This stimulates a better and deeper root system and gives the good grasses more chance for the moisture than weeds will get.

During the dry weather the grass should be allowed to grow fairly high. The mower should be adjusted so that the grass will be two inches tall after cutting. The higher cut will help shade the ground and help to keep the soil cool and preserve what moisture there is. A close cut dries out the surface of the ground quickly with resulting damage to the roots. Then the lawn will begin to brown.

To check on the amount of water you are giving the lawn place an empty can near the sprinkler. A coffee can will do. Avoid heavy watering if your lawn does not have good drainage. Watch out for the places where water collects instead of running off or being absorbed.

Three Persons Hospitalized After Crash

Three persons, injured in an automobile crash yesterday afternoon, were admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital. Two others were treated and released.

Admitted to the hospital were Mrs. Nannie Truax, 48, of Breezewood, who sustained lacerations and contusions; Edward L. Truax, 13, her son, who suffered similar injuries; and Earl Myles, 18, of Star Route, Breezewood, who was admitted for observation.

Their conditions are listed as "good." Hospital attaches said Leona Myles, 21, and Michael Myles, 17 months, were treated and released.

Full details of the accident were not available last night, although the crash was reported to have occurred in the Breezewood area when the car was forced off the highway by another car.

State Police said the accident occurred about 2 p. m. between Bedford and the Fulton County line.

Grapes Should Be Sprayed

Now is the time to be spraying grape crops in order to combat black rot, berry moth, Japanese beetle or mildew.

Joseph M. Steger, Allegheny County farm agent, suggests the berries be sprayed when they are the size of a pea and before they touch.

Bordeaux mixture is the standard fungicide for control of grape diseases. Mr. Steger said homemade bordeaux is made by combining copper sulfate (blue stone) and hydrated spray lime in water.

To make five gallons of spray use six ounces or one-half cup granular copper sulfate (one cup powdered or instant grade) and one and one-half cups of spray lime.

The bluestone should be dissolved in one-half the total volume of water before the spray lime is added. Commercially prepared bordeaux mixture powder should be used according to the recommendation of the manufacturer.

'Good Old Days' Had Postal Problems

Many people are raising at least a mild protest to the impending increases in postal rates, which become effective August 1, when the price of mailing a first-class letter goes to four cents along with a number of other boosts.

Critics often yearn for the so-called "good old days," but that could hardly be true insofar as the postal service is concerned. In colonial America, the system was simple and most unsatisfactory. If a person wished to write a friend in the New World, he would go to a tavern or coffee house on the docks of the nearest port and deposit his letter in a pouch placed there for the purpose.

Eventually, a ship would depart and, with a little luck, would arrive at its destination

Traffic on State Route 36 in the Lonaconing area today is running 37.5 per cent ahead of its volume of ten years ago, according to figures compiled by the State Roads Commission.

Another count showed that U. S. Route 40 volume at Huetts, just west of Hagerstown, is 72.2 per cent more traveled than it was in 1948.

Traffic volume figures for the first five months of this year released by the SRC indicate that traffic on some Maryland roads is 16 per cent heavier than it was a year ago while at other points it has decreased as much as 21 per cent.

The State Roads Commission announced over the weekend that traffic volume on the Potomac River toll bridge was 16.6 per cent greater during the first five months of 1958 than during the same period last year.

The Washington National Pike, U. S. Route 240, between Frederick and Washington, was up 2.7 per cent for the first five months compared to 1957. The same is true of U. S. Route 13 between Salisbury and the Delaware line.

Other increases noted were 2.5 per cent for the York Road at Cokesville, 4.7 per cent for U. S. Route 50 west of Ocean City, 4 per cent for State Route 5 east of Waldorf, 7.2 per cent for the Baltimore-Washington Expressway and 1.4 per cent for the Har-tisburg Expressway.

Decreases in traffic have been noted at a number of locations ranging from 1.7 per cent on U. S. Route 50 north of Easton to 21.2 per cent on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

In addition to weather and economic conditions, a part of the decrease in traffic on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge and the Blue Star Memorial Highway can be traced to the diversion of some north-south traffic to the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel.

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge, when compared to the Sandy Point-Matapeake Ferry System, shows a 313.7 per cent increase over the 10-year period.
